Germany is Reported Ready for Titanic "All Out" Assault

10,000 PLANE-LOADS OF BOMBS DAILY OVER LONDON IS PLANNED

Nazi quarters in Berlin said today that 10,000 plane-loads of bombs daily will be unleashed on the London area in the next few days, striking from French coastal bases in a titanic "all out" assault.

A host of 2,500 German warplanes making four trips daily will carry out the threatened full-scale blitzkrieg, they declared, apparently aimed at wiping out the 2,000-year-old British capital with its 8,000,000 inhabitants.

"I wouldn't give a farthing for the houses of parliament," said a German closely connected with Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering.

The informant said Goering had "left open" the question of whether troop landings would be attempted to conquer the island kingdom, declaring: "It all depends on how well the British fight back."

This unofficial report, if true, would indicate that the next two or three days may see a decisive turn in the year-old European conflict.

The informant asserted that the great waves of Nazi bombers were scheduled to start the assault either late today or tomorrow.

Earlier, Britons excitedly cheered a smashing RAF raid on Berlin today as a belated announcement disclosed that Buckingham Palace—the century-old royal residence of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth—was partially wrecked by a German bomb.

Coincident with this curiously delayed disclosure, which was not explained, First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander commented on reports of "mass concentrations by the enemy making his dispositions for entrance into this country," and declared:

"I can promise that if the enemy comes across in surface craft, they are going to get something to go on with."

Waves of British RAF dive-bombers gave Berlin's 4,000,000 an acrid taste of terror from the skies today, knifing through a fierce anti-aircraft barrage to rain explosives on Hitler's Reichstag, the Potsdam railway station, the Brandenburg Gate and the famous Unter Den Linden—Berlin's Fifth Avenue.

One unexploded bomb was believed to have dropped barely a yard from the home of Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels.

Hitler's high command admitted that a number of streets in the capital "had to be evacuated temporarily" this morning "because of the danger of houses collapsing."

Bomb splinters slightly damaged the United States embassy, adjoining Goebbels' residence, shattering a window and denting the opposite wall in the office of First Secretary Donald R. Heath.

Huge craters pocked Unter Den Linden. Incendiary bombs crashed to the roof of the Reichstag, setting fires which workmen quickly extinguished.

Other explosives hit the 150-year-old Brandenburg Gate, 55 feet high and 205 feet wide, and fell on Berlin's second largest hospital, St. Hedwig's, which houses 700 to 800 patients.

The RAF raiders, striking before dawn in the most spectacular assault yet on the German capital, took a reported toll of five

STATE CALLS ON SCIENCE TO HELP IN CONVICTION

Damaging Evidence Against Centre County Defendant is Given by Professor of Textile Chemistry With Use of "Slides" of Fibres

SHERIFF'S WIFE HEARD

Bellefonte, Sept. 11.—(P)—Richard Millinder, 22-year-old road worker, denied from the witness stand today that he saw Faye Gates the day the commonwealth contends he killed her with a stone on a lonely "Spook Hollow" road. Opening the defense, Attorney Lewis Orvis Harvey told the jury he would show that the 25-year-old factory worker was followed by a second car the night she was slain and that this car later left the murder scene "at a rapid rate of speed." The defense attorney declared further that he would show that Millinder went directly home after visiting a neighbor's. The prosecution rested its case at 10:15 a. m. after District Attorney Musser W. Getting read statements which he said were signed by Millinder. Millinder appeared unmoved as they were read.

BY HAROLD WARD

Bellefonte, Sept. 11.—(P)—The prosecution called on science today in its final steps to win conviction of Richard Millinder, 22-year-old road worker, in the stone murder of attractive Faye Gates.

Dr. Pauline Beery Mack, professor of textile chemistry at the Pennsylvania State College, identified "slides" of fibres taken from Millinder's blue-gray sweater and Faye's clothing and finger nail scrapings.

Sweater fibres corresponding with those of Millinder's were found under nearly every nail, Dr. Mack said.

Likewise, she testified, rayon fibres of the type in Faye's dress were found on wool and cotton fibres of the sweater.

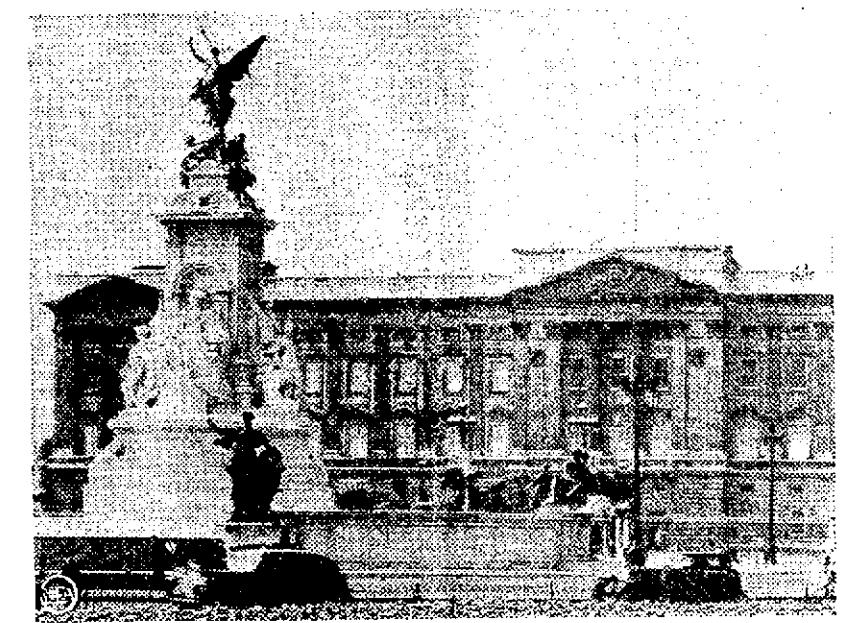

Her testimony was in elaboration of that given last night by J. Fred Osterling, research fellow in textile chemistry at Penn State. "We have been able to find in the fingernail slide a counterpart for each fibre in the sweater slides," said Dr. Mack.

Microphotographs of the fibre slides then were projected on a screen before the jury by Dr. Mack and Mr. Osterling.

The partly clad body of Miss Gates was shown to the jury.

Democratic Chairman Flynn Declares Address To Teamsters Union Will Be "Political" and Committee Will Pay for Radio Time

Washington, Sept. 11.—(P)—Keen political interest centered today on President Roosevelt's address to the International Teamsters convention—an address announced by his press secretary as "in all probability x x x the labor speech of the campaign."

Mr. Roosevelt will make the address in Constitution Hall tonight (from 8:30 to 10 p. m., EST.), but he said yesterday that "no one would be able to tell whether it was political even after it had been delivered."

In New York, however, Democratic National Chairman Flynn said it would be a "political speech," and the Democratic national committee arranged to pay for the radio time on two national networks (NBC-CBS)—a possible sign, inasmuch as broadcasting companies charge to carry political speech supporters noted that

Mounting Returns From Balloting in Arizona Show Senator Ashurst, Long Colorful Capital Figure, in Apparently Losing Fight in Bid for Renomination; Vandenberg Wins in Michigan; Stassen in Minnesota

GOV. DICKINSON FAR IN FRONT OF RIVALS

By The Associated Press
Mounting returns from Tuesday's primary elections found Senator Ashurst (D-Ariz.), long a colorful capital figure in an apparently losing fight today in his sixth bid for renomination, but the prospects were happier for three of his colleagues.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) was assured of renomination by an overwhelming majority, while Senator Henry Shippstead, who joined the Republican ranks this summer, enjoyed a wide lead in Minnesota over a field of eight as the choice of his adopted party. And in Vermont Senator Austin received renomination unopposed.

Ashurst, whose opposition to the conscription bill was used against him in the Arizona campaign, trailed his opponent, Ernest W. McFarland, by a vote of almost two-to-one. Ashurst has been senator from Arizona since the state's admission to the union in 1912.

Louisiana returns indicated that four members of the house of representatives had gone down to defeat, with three others facing the uncertainty of run-off primaries. Gov. Sam Jones, elected last winter by the anti-long forces, had urged the defeat of all 8 incumbents as supporters of the Long organization. One did not seek renomination.

Besides renominating Senator Austin, Vermont Republicans picked Gov. George D. Aiken, frequent new deal critic, for the senate vacancy resulting from the death of Senator Gibson (R). Aiken won the short term nomination decisively over Ralph E. Landers.

In gubernatorial contests, two well known figures were riding high. Gov. Harold Stassen, Keynote of the Republican national convention, had a huge lead in Minnesota over two critics of his administration. Stassen's activity in behalf of the Republican presidential nominee, Wendell L. Willkie, (Turn to Page Nine)

No Organized Plan To Remove Citizens

London, Sept. 11.—(P)—In spite of the continuing German air raids on London, British officials said today they had made no plans for organized removal of adults from the capital.

There is a plan to remove some 200,000 school children who still remain, but even this will not be put into operation, officials said, unless the demand becomes greater than that of this week, in which the Germans have intensified their night attacks.

The official view is that, unless the situation changes radically, adults who wish to leave can get out on their own responsibility. A number of persons already started to do this, but how many is conjecture. There is no sign of a large exodus.

CHURCHILL DISCUSSES INVASION

Prime Minister in Radio Address Declares Hitler is Preparing to Cross Channel With Land Forces by Moving Hundreds of Self-Propelled Barges Down From Northern Ports to French Coast Opposite Britain's Shores

PREDICTS NEXT WEEK MAY TELL THE STORY

London, Sept. 11.—(P)—Via Radio—Prime Minister Winston Churchill said today Germany is preparing for the invasion of England by moving hundreds of self-propelled barges down from northern ports to the French coast opposite Britain's shores.

"These craft and troop convoys, the prime minister said, are moving into position under the protection of the big German guns set up on the French coast.

"No one should blind himself to the fact that this German invasion is being planned with all the German craft and method characteristic of them," he said.

The next week, he said, "must be regarded as a very important one for us in our history."

He compared it with the attempt of the Spanish armada to invade the British Isles and the later attempt of Napoleon.

"Every man and woman must prepare to do his duty, whatever it may be, with special pride and care," he said.

"Our fleet is very powerful, our shores are well fortified and well manned, and behind these lines we have a better equipped and fiercer fighting army than we have ever had before."

Adolf Hitler, Churchill said, "has ignited a fire which will burn with a steady flame until the last vestiges of Nazi tyranny and brutality have been wiped out and the old and new worlds join their great forces to build that which has been destroyed."

Turning to the effects of the air raids on London, the prime minister said, "All the world marvels at the courage, the fortitude of the people who are witnessing these attacks."

Island Fortress Set For Expected Visit

London, Sept. 11.—(P)—The possibility that Adolf Hitler is preparing to launch his long-threatened invasion of Britain brought this terse comment today from a high source: "Wherever and whenever they come, the island fortress is ready for any Nazis able to battle their way ashore."

When and if the German fuhrer decides to take the big gamble, it is generally agreed he will make the main push across the English channel, using Norway as a subsidiary base. British airmen have been watching all areas from which the thrust might come.

RUMANIAN DICTATOR ISSUES A WARNING

Bucharest, Sept. 11.—(P)—Rumania's military dictator, Gen. Ion Antonescu, broadcast a warning today against "dissatisfaction and anarchistic movements," which he said have begun to show themselves.

Political circles believed the warning was intended especially for members of the pro-Nazi Iron Guard.

Those who make use of their freedom to develop anarchistic ideas will be severely punished, the dictator said.

NATURALIZATION REGULATIONS TO BE TIGHTENED

Washington, Sept. 11.—(P)—Prompt house action was sought today on a new nationality code which sponsors claimed would "drastically tighten" existing naturalization regulations that Communists, Nazis and Fascists could not acquire United States citizenship.

Before the start of debate, Rep. Rees (R-Kas.) told reporters that the main purposes of the legislation were "to implement the fight against 'Fifth Columnists' and to clear up thousands of cases of doubtful American citizenship."

Although no groups are mentioned by name, Rees asserted belief that Communists, Nazis and Fascists would be barred from naturalization by new eligibility provisions.

Present law bars anarchists, polygamists, persons unable to speak English, army and navy deserters and draft dodgers.

The new legislation also would deny citizenship to those who advocate the overthrow by force or violence of the United States government or who distribute literature or contribute money "or promise anything of value" to that end.

Aliens who engage in or advocate sabotage also would be barred.

The legislation would repeal all existing nationality and citizenship laws and substitute a new code.

NEGOTIATIONS BROKEN

New York, Sept. 11.—(P)—The British Broadcasting Company reported today in a broadcast picked up by NBC that negotiations between the French and Japanese in Indo-China have been broken off by the French.

G. A. R. MARCHES AT SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 11.—(P)—The Grand Army of the Republic was on the march again today, but only a handful of the graying veterans turned out to walk behind the colors they defended almost 80 years ago.

Opening their 74th national encampment in the home town of their war-time commander-in-chief, Abraham Lincoln, most of the old soldiers were resigned to riding in automobiles for the six block parade.

The oldest of them all, Henry Mack, 103-year-old Minneapolis negro, was determined to march the distance on foot, past the old state house which the emancipator often frequented.

"I'm going to march in Father Abraham's town, if it's the last thing I do," Mack declared.

The United States marine band, heading the parade, had instructions to slow the marching cadence to 70 steps a minute for the benefit of the marchers—most of them in their nineties. Benches were placed at intervals along the route for those who were tired.

CONTRACTS FOR 14,394 PLANES ARE ANNOUNCED

Washington, Sept. 11.—(P)—A basis for type-standardization and mass production of American military aircraft was laid today with the placing of tentative orders for 14,394 army planes in one huge lot.

All the planes were expected to be virtual duplicates of models already being manufactured for the army. One official said a majority of them would be procured simply by exercising the options in some existing contracts. Other contracts will provide for the rest.

Representing an eventual expenditure of approximately $1,251,000,000, the tentative orders placed yesterday cover all of the army planes contemplated in the $5,251,000,000 defense act, which was signed Monday.

The War Department did not disclose delivery dates for the planes, contract amounts for individual manufacturers or how many of the ships were combat types.

Besides planes, which will cost an estimated $817,000,000, the orders included 28,282 engines at $377,000,000 and an unspecified number of propellers at $57,000,000.

The navy is engaged in making contracts for 2,400 more planes provided for in the defense appropriation.

Attempting to standardize production, the army does not now intend to call for any new types of

HOUSE SPEAKER RESTING EASILY

Baltimore, Sept. 11.—(P)—Speaker William B. Bankhead, weakened by constant strain of congressional duties in the midst of a national emergency, remained under close medical observation at his hotel today after collapsing half an hour before a scheduled nationwide radio address.

The 66-year-old Alabama fainter in his room last night from what Dr. George W. Calver, capital physician, said was an "exhaustingly painful" attack of sciatica.

Dr. Calver issued a midnight bulletin saying his patient was "resting easily."

The speaker was to have keynoted a rally formally launching the Democratic campaign in Maryland. His address, defending President Roosevelt's right to seek a third term, was read to the rally by Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor.

Tallulah Bankhead, the speaker's actress-daughter, arrived here by plane from New York today with her sister, Mrs. Eugenia Hoyt, and Miss Della Cavendish, her secretary.

REVIVES SCHEME TO REOPEN IDLE PLANTS

Harrisburg, Sept. 11.—(P)—Reopening of 75 to 100 industrial plants in Pennsylvania to aid in production for national defense is advocated by Richard P. Brown, secretary of commerce.

"It seems to me it would be wise to absorb these first into the industrial program, before we start building new plants," he commented.

Brown said a survey of all plants, equipment, adaptability for production and proximity to labor centers, which had been requested by the National Defense Emergency Council, will be completed within about ten days.

"One plant alone could reasonably put between 10,000 and 12,000 people to work," he commented.

Britain's volcanic "visiting cards," strewn by the millions on Germany, constitute the first authenticated new or "secret" weapons displayed in more than a year of the European war.

Ford "Tip" is Reward For Alert Waitress

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 10.—(P)—Good service as a waitress in a hotel dining room—which included "keeping curiosity-seekers away from Henry Ford"—brought Ethel Gaff, 19, a $16 reward.

When the girl found the change after the $4 luncheon check of Ford's party had been paid she thought it might have been left by accident.

But Harry Bennett, personnel director of the Ford Motor Company, said at Detroit last night that he "left the money purposely" after paying the bill because Miss Gaff had given good service and kept curious persons from disturbing the automobile magnate.

Volcanic "Visiting Cards" Strwn by the Millions Over Reich, New Secret Weapon

One plane can carry as many as a quarter-million of them.

Scattered over the countryside, they dry out and burst into flames a persistent little fire eight inches high.

The British say that the cards are effective in setting fire to munitions, supplies in open trucks, and in routing Germans out of hideouts in the woods.

That they are effective is indicated by the German complaint that farmhouses, barns, crops in the fields, and forests have been burned and that many persons have suffered injuries from picking them up for souvenirs.

This last suggests that possibly there is printed matter on them,

Late News Bulletins on War Situation

Berlin, Sept. 11.—(P)—Improvement in the weather today enabled huge units of the German air force to head across the English Channel for new raids on England, authorized sources said. The planes were reported over London, but no details were available.

London, Sept. 11.—(P)—Widespread bombing attacks by British planes on concentrations of barges along the German-held French, Belgian and Dutch coasts, such as might be used for an invasion of Britain, were reported tonight by the air ministry.

New York, Sept. 11.—(P)—The New York Sun says letters received by French residents here indicate the Germans already have attempted to land forces in England, with disastrous results. The letters give few details, but say that the German invading fleet set out from St. Malo with the intention of landing on the west coast of England.

Berlin, Sept. 11.—(P Via Radio)—The official German radio today broadcast a denial of the British claim that the RAF, in last night's attack on the German capital, bombed and hit the Potsdam railway station.

Louisiana returns indicated that four members of the house of representatives had gone down to defeat, with three others facing the uncertainty of run-off primaries.

Gov. Sam Jones, elected last winter by the anti-Long forces, had urged the defeat of all 8 incumbents as supporters of the Long organization. One did not seek renomination.

Beside renominating Senator Austin, Vermont Republicans picked Gov. George D. Aiken, frequent new deal critic, for the senate vacancy resulting from the death of Senator Gibson (R). Aiken won the short term nomination decisively over Ralph E. Landers.

In gubernatorial contests, two well known figures were riding high.

Gov. Harold Stassen, keynoter of the Republican national convention, had a huge lead in Minnesota over two critics of his administration. Stassen's activity in behalf of the Republican presidential nominee, Wendell L. Willkie, (Turn to Page Nine)

Pittsburgh, Sept. 11—(P)—Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company announced that its August business, bolstered by defense contracts, reached $57,352,054, comprising the "biggest month" in its history.

HOUSE SPEAKER RESTING EASILY

Baltimore, Sept. 11—(P)—Speaker William B. Bankhead, weakened by constant strain of congressional duties in the midst of a national emergency, remained under close medical observation at his hotel today after collapsing half an hour before a scheduled nationwide radio address.

The 66-year-old Alabama fainter in his room last night from what Dr. George W. Calver, capital physician, said was an "excruciatingly painful" attack of sciatica.

Dr. Calver issued a midnight bulletin saying his patient was "resting easily."

The speaker was to have keynoted a rally formally launching the Democratic campaign in Maryland. His address, defending President Roosevelt's right to seek a third term, was read to the rally by Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor.

Tallulah Bankhead, the speaker's actress-daughter, arrived here by plane from New York today with her sister, Mrs. Eugenia Hoyt, and Miss Dola Cavendish, her secretary.

No Organized Plan To Remove Citizens

London, Sept. 11—(P)—In spite of the continuing German air raids on London, British officials said today they had made no plans for organized removal of adults from the capital.

There is a plan to remove some 200,000 school children who still remain, but even this will not be put into operation, officials said, unless the demand becomes greater than that of this week, in which the Germans have intensified their night attacks.

The official view is that, unless the situation changes radically, adults who wish to leave can get out on their own responsibility. A number of persons already started to do this, but how many is conjecture. There is no sign of a large exodus.

CHURCHILL DISCUSSES INVASION

Prime Minister in Radio Address Declares Hitler is Preparing to Cross Channel With Land Forces by Moving Hundreds of Self-Propelled Barges Down From Northern Ports to French Coast Opposite Britain's Shores

PREDICTS NEXT WEEK MAY TELL THE STORY

London, Sept. 11—(P) Via Radio—Prime Minister Winston Churchill said today Germany is preparing for the invasion of England by moving hundreds of self-propelled barges down from northern ports to the French coast opposite Britain's shores.

These craft and troop convoys, the prime minister said, are moving into position under the protection of the big German guns set up on the French coast.

"No one should blind himself to the fact that this German invasion is being planned with all the German craft and method characteristic of them," he said.

The next week, he said, "must be regarded as a very important one for us in our history."

He compared it with the attempt of the Spanish armada to invade the British Isles and the later attempt of Napoleon.

"Every man and woman must prepare to do his duty, whatever it may be, with special pride and care," he said.

"Our fleet is very powerful, xxx our shores are well fortified and well manned, and behind these lines we have a better equipped and far stronger army than we have ever had before."

Adolf Hitler, Churchill said, "has ignored a fact which will turn a steady flame until the last vestiges of Nazi tyranny and brutality have been wiped out xxx and the old and new worlds join their great forces to build that which has been destroyed."

Turning to the effects of the air raids on London, the prime minister said, "All the world marvels at the courage, the fortitude of the people who are witnessing these attacks."

REVIVES SCHEME TO REOPEN IDLE PLANTS

Harrisburg, Sept. 11—(P)—Re-opening of 75 to 100 industrial plants in Pennsylvania to aid in production for national defense is advocated by Richard P. Brown, secretary of commerce.

"It seems to me it would be wiser to absorb these first into the industrial program, before we start building new plant," he commented.

Brown said a survey of all plants, equipment, adaptability for production, and proximity to labor centers, which had been requested by the National Defense Emergency Council, will be completed within about ten days.

"One plant alone could reasonably put between 10,000 and 12,000 people to work," he commented.

Ford "Tip" is Reward For Alert Waitress

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 10—(P)—Good service as a waitress in a hotel dining room which included "keeping curiosity seekers" away from Henry Ford brought Ethel Gaff, 19, a $46 reward.

When the girl found the change after the $4 luncheon check of Ford's party had been paid she thought it might have been left by accident.

But Harry Bennett, personnel director of the Ford Motor Company, said at Detroit last night that he "left the money purposely" after paying the bill because Miss Gaff had given good service and kept curious persons from disturbing the automobile magnate.

Volcanic "Visiting Cards" Strewn by the Millions Over Reich, New Secret Weapon

By The Associated Press
Britain's volcanic "visiting cards," strewn by the millions on Germany, constitute the first authenticated new or "secret" weapon displayed in more than a year of the European war.

The British acknowledge the existence and purpose of the cards, but are silent on technical details. They have, however, let the British Broadcasting Company transmit Germany's angrier description of the little bits of paper.

The cards, about two inches square, are made of phosphorus and gun cotton and are carried in damp packages in British bombers, the Germans assert.

One plane can carry as many as a quarter-million of them.

Scattered over the countryside, they dry out and burst into flames—a persistent little fire eight inches high.

The British say that the cards are effective in setting fire to munitions, supplies in open trucks, and in routing Germans out of hideouts in the woods.

That they are effective is indicated by the German complaint that farmhouses, barns, crops in the fields, and forests have been burned and that many persons have suffered injuries from picking them up for souvenirs.

This last suggests that possibly there is printed matter on them, a persistent matter on them.

Late News Bulletins on War Situation

Berlin, Sept. 11—(P)—Improvement in the weather today enabled large units of the German air force to head across the English Channel for new raids on England, authorized sources said. The planes were reported over London, but no details were available.

London, Sept. 11—(P)—Widespread bombing attacks by British planes on concentrations of barges along the German-held French, Belgian and Dutch coasts, such as might be used for an invasion of Britain, were reported tonight by the air ministry.

New York, Sept. 11—(P)—The New York Sun says letters received by French residents here indicate the Germans already have attempted to land forces in England, with disastrous results. The letters give few details, but say that the German invading fleet set out from St. Malo with the intention of landing on the west coast of England.

Berlin, Sept. 11—(P Via Radio)—The official German radio today broadcast a denial of the British claim that the RAF in last night's attack on the German capital, bombed and hit the Potsdamer railway station.

Berlin, Sept. 11—(P Via Radio)—The Berlin radio broadcast a dispatch from Milan today that a British fleet had sailed into the Mediterranean from Gibraltar.

SQUIRES GROUP IS FORMED BY
K. OF C. COUNCIL

In an impressive ceremony held here Sunday, 34 boys became charter members of a local circle of Columbian Squires under the sponsorship of Warren Council, No. 964, Knights of Columbus.

The day's program opened with mass at St. Joseph's church at 8:45 a. m., when the entire group of boys received Holy Communion in a body. The celebrant was the Rev. Father Walter J. Conway, of Erie, executive director of youth activities in the Erie diocese, who gave a fitting sermon during the mass.

Communion breakfast was served in St. Joseph's school hall following the mass to the Squires and a good representation of Knights by members of the Girls' Sodality of St. Joseph's parish. A. A. Klein, chief counselor of the Columbian Squires, acted as toastmaster and presented Father Conway, the Rev. Father E. J. Jacobs and Dr. J. T. Valone, grand knight of Warren Council, who spoke briefly.

The major portion of the program started at 2:30 p. m. in the newly decorated K. of C. rooms. The investing team from Altoona Circle, Columbian Squires, under the leadership of Chief Counselor Paul F. Behe, assisted by Chancellor G. J. McMullen and the officers of Altoona Circle including Chief Squire Jack Boslet, conducted the ceremonial, which was very impressive. The entire Catholic clergy of Warren and large number of Knights of Columbus attended.

Following the investiture of the class, the gavel was turned over to Dr. Valone, both grand knight of the local K. of C. and district deputy of the 26th Pennsylvania. Those presented to the gathering included Father Jacobs, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's parish and Father Prior of the local Squires; Rev. Father M. E. Dailey, pastor of Holy Redeemer parish and chaplain of Warren Council, K. of C.; Father Conway, of Erie; Chief Counselor Behe and Chief Squire Boslet, both of Altoona. All spoke briefly.

The program closed with a buffet lunch prepared by John Casces, Sr., assisted by Al Minelli.

The Columbian Squires is an organization sponsored by the K. of C. for Catholic boys between the ages of 14 and 18 for the purpose of occupying the boys' leisure time by spiritual, cultural education, civic, social and physical programs, yet in no way interfering with the boys' home, church or school activities. To date about 25,000 boys have been enrolled throughout the country.

"Rats" are to be provided by the committee, it is stated.

KINDERGARTEN TRIP

Mrs. T. H. Conway, 513 Fourth avenue, took members of her East street school kindergarten class to Youngsville on Tuesday for a visit to the plant of the Keystone Face Brick Company, where clay had been secured for classroom projects. Mrs. Rex Biekarck and Miss Jean Ball helped with transportation for the children. Several other visits to places of interest are planned within the coming months.

SECURITIES BAN

The Pennsylvania Securities Commission has served a cease and desist order upon Krupp-Flaherty Oil Corporation, 50 East 42nd street, New York City, who are soliciting residents of this commonwealth to purchase stock. Krupp-Flaherty Oil Corporation is not registered as dealers in securities and, therefore, any offering made to residents of this state are in violation of the Pennsylvania Securities Act.

K. OF C. MEETING

The regular semi-monthly meeting of Warren Council, Knights of Columbus, will be held tomorrow evening at the rooms on Second avenue. At this time the committee on the "stag" picnic to be held Sunday, September 22, will report and other business of importance will be transacted. Many members of the organization are planning to go to Bradford on Sunday, where an exemplification of the third degree of the order is to be held.

POLITICAL SPEECH

President Roosevelt gets top billing on the air tonight with a speech to the International Federation of Teamsters and Chauffeurs, A. F. L. union which is holding its convention in Washington. The Democratic National Committee decided that "because of important views which the president will express" the speech should be classified as political, and therefore decided to pay broadcasting chains for the time. The speech will be carried on WJZ-NBC and on CBS from 10:30 to 11 o'clock. CBS will precede Mr. Roosevelt's address with one by Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin. LaFollette, sponsored by the American First Committee, will oppose extension of aid to Britain beyond the limits of the cash and carry law. He speaks from 10:15 to 10:30.

Plan Reception For Pastor and Wife at Local U. B. Church

All members and friends of the United Brethren church here are extended a cordial invitation to attend an informal reception to be held at the church this evening at 7:30 o'clock, following the mid-week service.

The gathering is arranged to honor the pastor, Rev. C. E. Dibble and Mrs. Dibble, who have been returned by the conference to begin their eighth year of work in the local parish.

There will be a short program presented and the evening will conclude with a social hour and refreshments.

Among the guests will be Rev. C. D. Dibble, of Youngsville, son of the local couple, and his wife. They, in turn, are to be honored with a supper and reception in Youngsville Thursday evening in honor of their return and start of their fifth year of activity. All members of the Warren church are welcome to that gathering, also.

COUNTY DENTAL HYGIENISTS TO VISIT SCHOOLS

H. L. Blair, county superintendent of schools, announces today that as a result of a request made last spring to the department of health in Harrisburg, Warren county is to have the services of two trained dental hygienists.

The first of these, Miss Mary B. McGinley, arrived today and another will join her as soon as further appointments have been made.

Their work will include inspection of teeth of all pupils in schools outside of Warren borough, grades one through eight, and with their own equipment, cleaning of teeth where necessary. The workers will also issue corrective advice cards for the children to take home to parents and to their own family dentist. Each day's activities will be prefaced by a talk on the proper care of the teeth.

The remainder of this week, Miss McGinley will confer with local nurses and interview local dentists in regard to her work, which will get under way next Monday.

The two nurses will be here until the last of November or first of December, covering all of the county possible. The remainder of the work will be completed next spring.

This is the first time such a service has been offered the county children, Mr. Blair stated today, and it is believed that it will be a greatly appreciated and profitable one.

WARREN MAN IS ASKED TO LEAD
ALUMNI CLASS

Donald E. McComas, of Warren, has accepted an invitation from the trustees and the General Alumni Society of the University of Pennsylvania to represent his alumni class at special convocations to be held during the university's bicentennial celebration week.

Mr. McComas whose home is at 12 Central avenue, attended the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at Pennsylvania and is a member of the class of 1923.

On Friday afternoon, September 20, the alumni representatives will lead their classes in an alumni parade from the Dormitory Quadrangle to convention hall, where a convocation of university council will form part of a notable program beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

During the convocation President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is honorary chairman of the United States University of Pennsylvania Commission, and Sir Lyman P. Duff, chief justice of Canada, will receive honorary degrees and deliver addresses.

Addresses also will be delivered by Dr. Thomas S. Gates, president of the university, and by Justice Owen J. Roberts, of the Supreme Court of the United States, who is a Pennsylvania alumnus and a member of the federal commission for the bicentennial.

Another impressive convocation, which will bring the bicentennial celebration week to a close, will be held in convention hall at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning, September 21.

Governor Arthur H. James, of Pennsylvania, President Gates, and Dr. George Wm. McClelland, provost of the university, will deliver addresses at this convocation; twenty-one honorary degrees will be conferred, and there will be a reception for 500 delegates from other colleges, universities, and learned societies.

Preceding the convocation on Saturday will be a colorful parade in which the Pennsylvania alumni invited to represent the various classes will march with officials and faculty members of the university, recipients of honorary degrees, and the delegates from other institutions and organizations.

MEMORY OF THE MOON

by Jeanne Bowman

YESTERDAY: Pedro inquires about John and John writes about Pedro. Constance feels she is being honest with neither of them. Remembering her agreement with John, she realizes what a spot she is in.

Chapter 23

'Try To Understand'

EVEN the fire, which had died to coals, blazed to new life with Pedro's return. Flaming leaped with the draught from the door, to throw bronze lights on the dark face, to reflect flames in the dark eyes.

Constance ran an inquiring finger along the plane of his cheek and wondered if all things unattainable became increasingly precious.

"You can't borrow without security," Pedro said.

"Michael, hasn't anyone ever told you that you can't bargain with love? Child, there's no security in it, nothing but loneliness when you're away; loneliness and doubt and... Michael, how could I talk to you when I was afraid I'd try to sell some tough hombre on a lot with Irish eyes and skin, a rated ninety-nine percent cream?"

He released her to build up the fire. The logs caught, blazed, filled the room with golden light, as Pedro's presence there seemed to fill it with life and vitality.

"What have you been doing while I've been away?" he demanded.

Constance remembered. "Thinking, Pedro."

"Too much of anything is dangerous," he chided, and leaned forward to study her — "what's wrong?"

Constance sat thinking, sat watching Pedro. She was distrustful of John Raskthorne as she had previously distrusted Pedro. Why? Was she so fickle, so vacillating, she swung to the man in whose presence she was?

Two months ago she had thought, "It is Pedro and I, the Cabrillos, with John to back me." Now she thought, "It is Pedro, Peter Senior and I, against John and the Cabrillos, with Pedro to back me."

Until she was sure she was not alone in this fight for El Cabrillo, until she knew, without question, who would back her to win, she couldn't speak; she couldn't risk disloyalty.

"I can't tell anyone, Pedro," she answered slowly.

"That's all right, providing it doesn't burden you too much. Why not tell me hypothetically? If Constance, I wonder, if she could break down the essentials and put them into a few words."

"Pedro," she asked, "what is victory? Attainment of a thing, a person, a condition, or what?"

"To me, the victory lies in the battle. No one can defeat you if you come out of the battle knowing you've given your best. You can lose every earthly possession, every earthly love, but as long as you know you have played the game to the best of your ability, you're not defeated."

In the deep sigh which came from Constance came also her doubts and fears. "Thank you, Pedro. She stretched her hand to him. "That's what I needed to know."

"And I think," added Pedro, holding her hand tightly, "that Michael Mahoney wouldn't count a battle lost until he had been slammed into the battle and the key was turned on him. Even then his luck might turn at the zero hour."

"Now let's talk business," suggested Constance. "I'll have Juliana serve dinner in here; provided he'll allow us to remain alone without a duenna. For Juliana, every time he sees me in slacks, he heads for the chapel to say a dozen prayers for my soul."

Pedro was home and all was right with the world.

Quickened Pace

ALL was right with John Raskthorne. Constance wondered how she could have thought John, her friend, faithful, ever-patient John, would have taken advantage of their agreement. It was ludicrous. They'd find a way to keep the ranch in the hands of the Cabrillos. Now all effort must be concentrated on making it a success.

Pedro was home. He arrived just in time to save Constance from something she was never sure just what it was. The last round-up threatened to be a funeral affair. Little brown men rode sadly out of El Cabrillo, herding the last beef cattle to market. Pedro rode with them. They all returned together, in high spirits.

Dolores, watching, shook her head. "Pedro," she sighed, "from his hand he can make them eat." Life on El Cabrillo quickened its pace. Fall spring came and the fields were planted. The Dutch Belted herd moved to the first quaters, ready, and immediately started giving the ranch its first feeling of a dairy.

Truckloads of loving, protesting cows came in from the south to stumble down the runways, look about with resigned eyes, then sniffing food, amble over to feed bins and accept El Cabrillo as home.

Even the Cabrillo men grew contented. "Señorita," Francisco, a milker, called one evening, "look, Saint Channel Daisy, she is giving increase. Since I, Francisco, have fed these Guernsey herds, they have grown in these milk and these butter fat. Manuel, he who has such butter fat. And his brown face beamed with pride above the starched white collar of his uniform.

Now it remained only for the railroad to be completed so that they could bring in the rest of the herds and start El Cabrillo Rancho on its road to security. Meanwhile Constance and Pedro rode. The hills were no longer scarred brown but the tender young green of new grass, and the canyons were filled with mauve mists. Purple rain clouds capped the peaks to shed silver streaks on the lowlands.

The poppies came like golden coins scattered by the careless hands of a Cabrillo, on steep mounds flanked by purple lupin. Constance, watching the dark quiet man who rode beside her, found her own likeness to this land. Something new, tender and selfless was growing in her heart, veiled from maturing by a promise given in the winter of a strange country.

"What is the sands of time ran swiftly?" demanded Pedro, as they sat in the shelter of a live-oak while the spring shower peppered their retreat. "Michael, why three years?"

Constance sprang up and walked to the edge of their shelter, then turned back. "Because," she promised Pedro. "You said that first day, 'how explain love to one who has never loved.' How did I know you couldn't bargain with love?"

He was beside her, was holding her arms tightly. "You made some such bargain when you were east," he stated. "Didn't you know that?"

"Oh Pedro, how could I tell it wasn't an infatuation, some romantic dream, propinquity, Pedro, how do I know now that it isn't?"

"Don't you know?"

"I didn't think."

THE rain dripped on the trees and the rocks. Constance lifted clear eyes to Pedro's. "That night I came back; then when you returned from your trip; those two short times I spent in your arms, I didn't think I didn't want to think, it was enough to be... by the time with you. That's why I asked you to promise there'd be no more of this."

"Love isn't a matter of the brain," Pedro protested. "Marriages that are thought out are loveless affairs. God knows, Michael, I didn't want to love you. I wanted El Cabrillo more than anything in the world, until I met you, and then I couldn't fight you to take it away from you."

"What I should do is lift you by this mop of blue-black hair, drag you to Beachport, fling you down before the magistrate and say—'come on, say the necessary. I want this woman bound to me so she won't be able to go out bargaining with love.' And then drag you home... to our home, Michael."

Constance knew in the next moment that that was what she wished he could do. All of her independence fled; her desire to prove herself to the world; her responsibility to the family. Even El Cabrillo was no longer home. Anyplace with Pedro would be home.

He released her suddenly. "Damn civilization," he snapped, mounted, and waited for her.

She saw then it was no longer raining.

They rode silently down to the ranch; their horses lifting mincing feet from the puddles; the puddles giving the gold of the sun back with doubled radiance. Constance was thinking, it's too late now. I can't sell out. I can't do anything. I'm tied for the three years. I owe that to everyone.

"Pedro," she rode close to him, "please try to understand."

Some of the sadness she had seen in his eyes, that first evening at Marias was there, disappointment?

"I am trying, Michael," he answered. "I have been, right along. I can't understand why, if you love me, you don't trust me enough to tell me everything. I can't ask you further. As I said, it's your battle. But from now on... it's up to you." He leaned forward to look down into the valley. "What's going on down there... at the ranch?"

Through a break in the willows Constance saw the sun glinting down on the wet hood of a car. Don's car. Behind it was her own little coupe.

"Oh dear," she breathed, "it looks as though the family had arrived. Oh dear," she said again, and rode forward, leaving a completely puzzled Pedro following.

The family had arrived. Constance knew it the moment she saw Juliana's face. It was radiant. He bestowed upon her a most superior lifting of eyebrows as he made the announcement.

"The Cabrillos," he said, loftily, "have come to their home... to live."

To live... the Cabrillos.

John Raskthorne stepped out of the door and look Constance in his arms. "Darling, I couldn't stay away from you a minute longer."

He looked up, aware only then of Pedro.

Constance looked also. The contempt she saw in the eyes of young Peter Taylor seemed to paralyze her tongue.

MEMORY OF THE MOON

by Jeanne Bowman

YESTERDAY, Pedro inquired about John and John writes about Pedro. Constance feels she is being honest with neither of them. Reexamining her agreement with John she realizes what a spot she is in.

Chapter 23

'Try To Understand'

EVEN the fire, which had died to coals, blazed to new life with Pedro's return. Flames leaped with the draught from the door, to throw bright lights on the dark face, to reflect flames in the dark eyes.

Constance ran an inquiring finger along the plane of his cheek and wondered if all things unattainable became increasingly precious.

"You can't borrow without security, Pedro," she chided.

"Michael, hasn't anyone ever told you that you can't bargain with love? Child, there's no security in it, nothing but loneliness when you're away; loneliness and doubt and... Michael, how could I talk steel beef when I was thinking of you? I was afraid I'd try to sell some tough hombre on a lot with Irish eyes and skin that rated ninety-nine percent cream."

He released her to build up the fire. The logs caught, blazed, filled the room with golden light, as Pedro's presence there seemed to fill it with life and vitality.

"What have you been doing while I've been away?" he demanded.

Constance remembered. "Thinking, Pedro."

"Too much of anything is dangerous," he chided, and leaned forward to study her — "what's wrong?"

Constance sat thinking, sat watching Pedro. She was distrustful John Raskthorne as she had previously distrusted Pedro. Why? Was she so fickle, so vacillating, she swung to the man in whose presence she was?

Two months ago she had thought, "It is Pedersen, and I against the Taylors and the Cabrillos, with John to back me." Now she thought, "It is Pedersen, Peter Senior and I, against John and the Cabrillos, with Pedro to back me."

Until she was sure she was not alone in this fight for El Cabrillo; until she knew, without question, who would back her to win, she couldn't speak; she couldn't risk disloyalty.

"I can't tell anyone, Pedro," she answered slowly.

"That's all right, providing it doesn't hurt you too much. Why not tell me hypothetically?"

Constance wondered if she could break down the essentials and put them into a few words.

"Pedro," she asked, "what is victory? Attainment of a thing, a person, a condition, or what?"

"To me, the victory lies in the battle. No one can defeat you if you come out of the battle knowing you've given your best. You can lose every earthly possession, every earthly love, but as long as you know you have played the game to the best of your ability, you're not defeated."

In the deep sigh which came from Constance, came also her doubts and fears. "Thank you, Pedro," she stretched her hand to him. "That's what I needed to know."

"And I think," added Pedro, holding her hand tightly, "that Michael Mahoney wouldn't count a battle lost until he had been slammed into the battle and then his luck might turn at the zero hour."

"Now let's talk business," suggested Constance. "I'll have Julian serve dinner in here; provided he'll allow us to remain alone without a duenna. Poor Julian, every time he sees me in slacks, he heads for the chapel to say a dozen prayers for my soul."

Pedro was home and all was right with the world.

Quickened Pace

ALL was right with John Raskthorne. Constance wondered how she could have thought John, her friend, faithful, ever-patient John, would have taken advantage of their agreement. It was ludicrous. They'd find a way to keep the ranch in the hands of the Cabrillos. Now all effort must be concentrated on making it a success.

Pedro was home. He arrived just in time to save Constance from something, she was never sure just what it was. The last run-up threatened to be a funeral affair. Little brown men rode sadly out of El Cabrillo, herding the last beef cattle to market. Pedro rode with them. They all returned together, in high spirits.

Dolores, watching, shook her head. "Pedro," she sighed, "from his hand he can make them eat."

Life on El Cabrillo quickened its pace. False spring came and the fields were planted. The Dutch Belled herd moved into the first quarters, ready, and immediately started giving the ranch its first feeling of a dairy.

Truckloads of lowing, protesting cows came in from the south to stabled down the runways, look about with resigned eyes, then sniffing food, amble over to feed bins and accept El Cabrillo as home.

Even the Cabrillo men grew contented.

"Señorita," Francisco, a milker, called one evening, "look, Saint Channel Daisy, she is giving increase. Since I, Francesco, have fed these Guernsey herds, they have grown in these milk and these butter fat. Manueto, he who bath those Dutch Belled, he has not such butter fat." And his brown face beamed with pride above the starched white collar of his uniform.

Now it remained only for the railroad to be completed so that they could bring in the rest of the herds and start El Cabrillo Rancho on its road to security.

Meanwhile Constance and Pedro rode. The hills were no longer green brown but the tender young spear of new grass, and the canyons were filled with mauve mists. Purple rain clouds capped the peaks to shed silver streaks on the lowlands.

The poppies came like golden coins scattered by the careless hands of a Cabrillo, or heaped in mounds flanked by purple lupin.

Constance, watching the dark quiet man who rode beside her, found her own likeness to this land. Something new, tender and selfless was growing in her heart, veiled from maturing by a promise given in the winter of a strange country.

"Who said the sands of time ran swiftly?" demanded Pedro, as they sat in the shelter of a live-oak while the spring shower peppered their retreat. "Michael, why three years?"

Constance sprang up and walked to the edge of her shelter, then turned back. "Because I promised, Pedro. You said, that first day, 'how explain love to one who has never loved.' How did I know you couldn't bargain with love?"

He was beside her, was holding her arms tightly. "You made some such bargain when you were east," he stated. "Didn't you know then?"

"Oh Pedro, how could I tell it wasn't an infatuation, some romantic dream, propinquity?" Pedro, how do I know now that it isn't?"

"Don't you know?"

"I Didn't Think!"

THE rain droned on the trees and the rocks. Constance lifted clear eyes to Pedro's. "That night I came back; then when you returned from your trip; those two short times I spent in your arms, I didn't think, I didn't want to think, it was enough to be... to be there with you. That's why I asked you to promise there'd be no more of this."

"Love isn't a matter of the brain," Pedro protested. "Marriages that are thought out are loveless affairs. God knows, Michael, I didn't want to love you. I wanted El Cabrillo more than anything in the world, until I met you, and then I couldn't fight you to take it away from you."

"What I should do is lift you by this mop of blue-black hair, drag you to Beachport, fling you down before the magistrate and say—'Come on, say the necessary. I want this woman bound to me so she won't be able to go out bargaining with love.' And then drag you home... to our home, Michael."

Constance knew in the next moment that was what she wished he could do. All of her independence fled; her desire to prove herself to the world; her responsibility to the family. Even El Cabrillo was no longer home. Anyplace with Pedro would be home.

He released her suddenly. "Damn civilization," he snapped, mounted, and waited for her.

She saw then it was no longer raining.

They rode silently down to the ranch, their horses lifting mincing feet from the puddles; the puddles giving the gold of the sun back with doubled radiance.

Constance was thinking, it's too late now, I can't sell out, I can't do anything, I'm tied for the three years, I owe that to everyone.

"Pedro," she rode close to him, "please try to understand."

Some of the sadness she had seen in his eyes, that first evening at Marias was there, disappointment.

"I am trying, Michael," he answered. "I have been, right along. I can't understand why, if you love me, you don't trust me enough to tell me everything."

"I won't ask you further. As I said, it's your battle. But from now on... it's up to you." He glanced forward to look down into the valley. "What's going on down there... at the ranch?"

Through a break in the willows Constance saw the sun glinting down on the wet hood of a car. Don's car. Behind it was her own little coupe.

"Oh dear," she breathed, "it looks as though the family had arrived. Oh dear," she said again, and rode forward, leaving a completely puzzled Pedro, following.

The family had arrived. Constance knew it the moment she saw Julian's face. It was radiant. He bestowed upon her a most superior lifting of eyebrows as he made the announcement.

"The Cabrillos," he said, loftily, "have come to their home... to live."

To live... the Cabrillos. "Constance!"

John Raskthorne stepped out of the door and took Constance in his arms. "Darling, I couldn't stay away from you a minute longer. I—"

He looked up, aware only then of Pedro.

Constance looked also. The contempt she saw in the eyes of young Peter Taylor seemed to paralyze her tongue.

The Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs has approved a $4,000 bond issue for Jones township, Elk county, for reconstructing and resurfacing roads.

COURT TOMORROW

There will be a session of county court tomorrow morning at ten o'clock. At yesterday's naturalization court 36 of the 47 applicants for citizenship were successful, with 11 cases being continued.

LILY POND AGAIN

Another accident at the Lily Pond occurred last evening, when an Ohio car skidded on the curve and hooked the rear fender on the guard rail. None was injured and the car was only slightly damaged.

INDUSTRIAL INJURIES

Lewis G. Hines, Secretary of Labor and Industry, reports there were 163 fatalities and 9,065 non-fatal injuries in Pennsylvania industries during July. Sixty-three of the fatalities resulted from an explosion in the Sonman bituminous mine in Cambria county.

RURAL ROAD PLANS

The Pennsylvania Department of Highways today listed 195 miles of rural roads for improvement this fall under a $3,253,000 resurfacing and reconstruction program announced last week by Governor James. The only Warren county project listed is on route 666 from Barnes to the Forest county line, 3.09 miles of macadam reconstruction.

PLAN NEW CROSSING

A plan of the state highways department to abolish a grade crossing on state route No. 33013 over the industry track of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Brookville has been approved by the Public Utility Commission. The department proposes to construct a new crossing 73 feet west of the existing crossing at an estimated cost of $1,937, and to improve parts of route 33013 including a new two-span truss bridge over Red Bank creek. Work on the crossing relocation is to be completed by October 1, 1941.

Eight New Patients During August For Local Health Nurse

According to the August report of the Warren Visiting Nursing Association representative, this organization handled 36 cases in the month just closed, with eight of these listed as new.

These cases, as typed, showed chronic medical leading with 24, followed by five acute medical, three surgical, two new-born and communicable and post-natal, one each.

In handling the work for the month, the nurse paid 100 nursing visits, eight in the interest of social service and welfare and four for maternity cases. In addition, there were 42 office and telephone calls made in the interests of patients.

The special activities included assistance at five child health clinics, where there were 20 new babies and 12 of pre-school age, 46 returned babies and 40 of pre-school age. Toxoid treatments were administered to four children and six were vaccinated. Two special child welfare home visits were paid by the nurse.

The association is very grateful to friends for the donation of a number of miscellaneous articles which have been used in the work.

DRY AIR IS COOLER

Desert air loses heat rapidly with the setting of the sun. This is due to the fact that dry air lets the heat leak away much faster than does moist air.

Relief Association Board Meeting Held

Fourteen members of the Warren Relief Association attended the monthly board meeting held Tuesday forenoon at the Y. W. C. A. activities building and heard reports of the work of the association and its needs.

ALLEGHENY RIVER IMPROVEMENT

An article in Tuesday's edition calls attention to the forthcoming meeting of the Allegheny River Improvement Association, to be held at East Brady, the present head of the navigation on the stream, on Columbus Day, Saturday, October 12th.

The following excerpts from a letter just received from Joseph Riesenman, Jr., of Franklin, president of the association, contains information that should be of much interest and assistance to residents of this area who may be somewhat skeptical as to the advantages that may be expected through the development of the stream to its headwaters:

"x x x The river is our really great national asset and, just as sure as fate, some day the Mississippi waterway is going to be extended to the Great Lakes, while the natural route for that extension is the Allegheny River. Its further development for purposes of navigation would result in great industrial activity in the Allegheny valley. The Monongahela River supplies only 20 per cent of the water for the Ohio, while the Allegheny supplies 80 per cent."

"For 40 years, I have been active in the movement to bring about the improvement of the river, have made repeated trips to Washington and argued the merits of our claims before the Board of Army Engineers, have enlisted the interest of members of the Congress from all parts of the country and a few years ago directed a letter to every member of Congress on the subject and received very encouraging replies from many distant states and requests for additional information, but little interest within our own state. Government financed improvements only follow the interest and persistent demands of the people of a section and our people should awaken to a really great opportunity. Enormous sums have been expended on other public improvements with not nearly as great potential national advantage as would accrue from the improvement of our river."

"I recently entered into a contract with the Lewis Historical Publishing Co., New York to write a history of Northwestern Pennsylvania and shall before long be searching for material in your county, as well as the others comprising the district to be covered. In this connection, I believe the early use of the river in lumbering operations will be of interest."

CIVILIAN TRAINING SPEEDS UP

One of the fastest-moving phases of the defense program has been vocational education—the training of civilian workmen in elementary skill that qualifies them for jobs in defense industries.

Within four days of the signing of the act appropriating $15,000,000 for the purpose, the program was launched. By July 31, 80,000 men were in training.
Commissioner of Education John W. Studebaker calls this speedy work a tribute to American education, and so it is.

Labor unions, industry, and educators all co-operated. Federal Security Administrator Paul McNutt stresses, pointing to vocational training work in 283 cities. Placement reports give hope that 20,000 trainees are already moving from summer courses into defense jobs.

Co-operation, team-work, speed. Result, accomplishment.

BRITAIN RETALIATES

According to today's news dispatches Britain is carrying the war to Germany on a scale similar to that being handed out by Hitler himself.

The ornate German Reichstag has been damaged by British raiders.

This imposing structure which houses Parliament, one of the show places in the capital of the Reich, was built between 1881 and 1894 with $6,000,000 indemnity money from France after the Franco-Prussian war and symbolized the German victory.

The big building has not been in use. It housed the Reich's Parliament until 1933 when it was gutted by the sensational fire which the Nazis blamed on Communists and publicized widely in their move to power.

Since then the Reichstag has been under repair—the work not yet completed—again to House Parliament, which meanwhile has been meeting in the Kroll opera house to hear Chancellor Adolf Hitler's speech.

Another historic spot, visited by all sightseers to the German capital, that was a target for the British fliers, was the famous Brandenburg gate in Unter Den Linden, considered the most beautiful and busiest part of the city. The gate, at the west end of the Linden, was erected in 1788-91 in imitation of the Propylaea in Athens, 85 feet high and 205 feet wide, topped by a copper victory statue taken to Paris by the French in 1807 and returned in 1814.

T-H-O-U-G-H-T-S

Stolen waters are sweet, and bread eaten in secret is pleasant. But he knoweth not that the dead are there; and that her guests are in the depths of hell.—Proverbs 9:17, 18.

He who purposely cheats his friend would cheat his God.—Lavater.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—The class will come to order for its first quiz of the fall term.

Q: Who is Ellery Queen, the mystery writer?

A: Ellery Queen isn't a fellow.
He's two Jewish boys who preduce radio shows in addition to writing murder mysteries. Previously they wrote under the name of Barnaby Ross.

Q: In London No. 10 Downing street is the address of the prime minister, but what is it in New York?

A: No. 10 Downing street in New York is a parking lot. It's down in the Village and it'll cost you a quarter if you want to park your hack there.

Q: What usually happens to laundymen who fail?

A: Well, Arch Selwyn once owned a laundry in Puerto Rico.
After it failed he returned to New York and became a famous Broadway producer.

Q: Have you ever heard the names of Thelma, Narvol, and Ursell?

A: Maybe you have to come from Utah to hear names like that. They are the sisters of pretious Lorraine Day, the little Mormon girl who went to Hollywood and got a break but who wasn't too blasé to stare when the Hollywood promoters brought her on a build-up visit to New York.
"My mother just makes up names like that," explains Lorraine.
"But if you think they're unusual,
wait'll I tell you about my uncle, whose name will kill you. It's Stippen Ichabod."

Q: If you can name a song identified with some form of sport that has become a real American classic, teacher will reverse the procedure and give you the apple.

A: How about "Take Me Out to the Ball Game"? That's a real American classic that will live as long as baseball is played.

Q: Well, how about naming a couple of streets that have been immortalized by jazz?

A: That's easy—Beale street in Memphis ("Beale Street Blues"), and Rampart street in New Orleans ("Rampart Street Parade").

Q: Where is Tin Pan Alley?

A: It isn't anywhere. It's a legendary street that doesn't actually exist and never has.
When song writers in the old days banged their funny pianos in search of melodies, they sometimes made an awful fuss. From this far-fetched source the name of Tin Pan Alley has grown into a mythical high-road of hit tune composers. Tin Pan Alley is where you find it. It is wherever songs are born.

A: Finally, how about a few of the inconsistencies that help make New York what it is?

Q: Well, there are no banks on Bank street, the 7th avenue street car runs on Broadway and the Broadway trolley runs on 7th avenue. Abe Lyman is the only orchestra leader in town who began life as a taxi driver and the North River is west of Manhattan.
Furthermore, there are no brooms sold on Broom street, and Pershing Square isn't a square but merely an intersection in 42nd street.

YEARS AGO IN WARREN

Interesting Items Taken From the Warren Evening Times

In 1920

The automobile races at the Fair Grounds Friday afternoon were as interesting as if they had been staged by professional drivers. The most serious accident of the day occurred when the Andrews car, driven by Harry Munkewitz, went through the fence on the seventh lap.

There have been no indications of a return of last year's influenza epidemic this winter. Health officials do not expect the disease to be as widespread or as virulent this year as in 1919.

A number of Warrenites who have seen service in the various countries with which the United States has been at war are being trained to establish a Post Office at Crans of Foreign Wars here.

One of the most enterprising features of Old Home Week was held last night when thousands were treated to the greatest exhibitions display that has been witnessed in this city.

The Mummer's parade, that brings to a close the Old Home Week celebration, will be held tonight.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Was Washington Wrong
In Training His Army?

THE American colonial army was little more than an untrained patriotic rabble when George Washington assumed command at Cambridge in 1775.
Washington is shown taking com-
the U. S. Lexington-Concord issue of 1925, commemorating the 150th anniversary of the first battle of the Revolution.

Military critics now believe Washington was wrong in trying to make his army conform to British standards of strategy and discipline. Most of the Americans were expert marksmen, but they had no liking for lines, squares and bayonets. They preferred to hide behind rocks and trees, pick off their British enemies.

Washington wanted an army with strict discipline, drilled in military tactics of the period. He hated the familiarity of officers and men, tried to make regulations and had them kept.

But the rabble army showed its courage at Lexington and Concord and again at Bunker Hill.
The Americans made their best showing at Bunker Hill, losing only 441 men to the British 1054.

CRANIUM CRACKERS

LEON TROTSKY
Leon Trotsky, famed Russian exile, died in Mexico City in August, victim of a pickax assault.
How many of these questions about him can you answer?

1. Trotsky was one of two men instrumental in establishing the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. Who was the other?
2. What two government positions did Trotsky hold in the U. S. S. R.?
3. Was Trotsky a leading figure in the overthrow of the czarist regime in Russia?
4. How long was he in Mexico?
5. What was Trotsky's connection with Lev Davidovich Bronstein?

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—Answering the mail orders:
H. J. L. Alkany, Minn.— Claude R. Wickard, the new secretary of agriculture, is definitely not a farside farmer.
Graduating from Purdue university in 1915, he hid right back to the 380-acre Carroll county, Indiana, farm that has been in his family for 100 years, and started immediately experimenting with some theories he had picked up in college—but it was dirt farming, not office chair stuff. He did some real pioneering in soil rehabilitation work and once was selected by a farm magazine as "master farmer of Indiana."

Right now, the 47-year-old secretary gets his biggest kick in life out of getting back to the farm and helping the hired hands harvest a crop. He has a husky, solid frame and a healthy grin that runs off in wrinkles at the corner of his eyes. He is sometimes referred to as "a swell dresser," but he looks plenty at ease in old wrinkled trousers, a pair of weather-beaten brogans, and an open-collared shirt.

He did do a bit of dabbling in politics out in Indiana, getting himself elected to the state senate in 1932 but resigned a little more than a year later to come to Washington in a comparatively minor capacity in the old Agricultural Adjustment Administration.
He likes to refer to himself as an "Andrew Jackson Democrat." His father and his grandfather both were christened Andrew Jackson Wickard.

In Washington, the Wickards (there are two daughters, but one will be in school this winter and the other working in Indianapolis) practically keep open house for the many friends who drift through here from the Middle West. But whenever there's a holiday you find the secretary of agriculture back in Carroll county pitching hay or feeding the hogs.
Incidentally, he is one of the first cabinet members here to come up through the ranks of his department.

K. D., Bristol, Va.—The Army and Navy are being so cagey

these days, it is almost impossible to get any information out of either, but I believe the Army planners to call up about 8,000 reserve officers for extended duty.
These men will not be called up all at once, however. They will be infiltrated into the training program as expansion demands. It might even be months before they get around to the reserve officer friend you mention and the fact that another acquaintance of yours has been called is hardly any indication that the former has any special pull.

W. E. D., Fort Worth, Tex.— Thanks for your enlightening letter on Gov. "Pass-the-biscuits-pappy" W. Lee O'Daniel. I hope the good people of Texas continue to enjoy that "blackout of higher taxes."

Mrs. N. D. C. Kansas City, Kas.—
The reason that I have not carried any instructions on the alien registration and fingerprinting is simply that although this is a national program, it is local in every community and I am sure that the hometown papers have carried the instructions from the agents.
Aliens who have taken out first papers do have to register. The registration period closes day after Christmas. Aliens not registering by that time are liable to $1,000 fine and six months in jail.
I think that, in every community, the registration is taking place in postoffices and registration division officials assure me that in no instance anywhere do the police fingerprinting departments have anything to do with it.

T. R. B., Fairview, Neb.—To put it briefly, the Agriculture department says the 1941 farm program is virtually a continuation of the present program, so I should think you could believe your farm agents that any benefits you received this year will be forthcoming next. Since the republicans, neither through Mr.
Willkie nor Senator McNary, have given any hint of changes in the farm program, I can see no reason for thinking now that even a change in Administration would result in any material change in agricultural legislation.

ALLEGHENY RIVER IMPROVEMENT

An article in Tuesday's edition calls attention to the forthcoming meeting of the Allegheny River Improvement Association, to be held at East Brady, the present head of the navigation on the stream, on Columbus Day, Saturday, October 12th.

The following excerpts from a letter just received from Joseph Riesenman, Jr., of Franklin, president of the association, contains information that should be of much interest and assistance to residents of this area who may be somewhat skeptical as to the advantages that may be expected through the development of the stream to its headwaters:

"x x x The river is our really great national asset and, just as sure as fate, some day the Mississippi waterway is going to be extended to the Great Lakes, while the natural route for that extension is the Allegheny River. Its further development for purposes of navigation would result in great industrial activity in the Allegheny valley, just as has been the case on the Monongahela valley. The Monongahela River supplies only 20 per cent of the water for the Ohio, while the Allegheny supplies 80 per cent.

"For 40 years, I have been active in the movement to bring about the improvement of the river, have made repeated trips to Washington and argued the merits of our claims before the Board of Army Engineers, have enlisted the interest of members of the Congress from all parts of the country and a few years ago directed a letter to every member of Congress on the subject and received very encouraging replies from many distant states and requests for additional information, but little interest within our own state. Government financed improvements only follow the interest and persistent demands of the people of a section and our people should be awakened to a really great opportunity. Enormous sums have been expended on other public improvements with not nearly as great potential national advantage as would accrue from the improvement of our river.

"I recently entered into a contract with the Lewis Historical Publishing Co., New York to write a history of Northwestern Pennsylvania and shall before long be searching for material in your county, as well as the others comprising the district to be covered. In this connection, I believe the early use of the river in lumbering operations will be of interest."

CIVILIAN TRAINING SPEEDS UP

One of the fastest-moving phases of the defense program has been vocational education—the training of civilian workmen in elementary skill that qualifies them for jobs in defense industries.

Within four days of the signing of the act appropriating $15,000,000 for the purpose, the program was launched. By July 31, 80,000 men were in training. Commissioner of Education John W. Studebaker calls this speedy work a tribute to American education, and so it is.

Labor unions, industry, and educators all co-operated. Federal Security Administrator Paul McNutt stresses, pointing to vocational training work in 283 cities. Placement reports give hope that 20,000 trainees are already moving from summer courses into defense jobs.

Co-operation, team-work, speed. Result, accomplishment.

BRITAIN RETALIATES

According to today's news dispatches Britain is carrying the war to Germany on a scale similar to that being handed out by Hitler himself.

The ornate German Reichstag has been damaged by British raiders.

This imposing structure which houses Parliament, one of the show places in the capital of the Reich, was built between 1884 and 1894 with $6,000,000 indemnity money from France after the Franco-Prussian war and symbolized the German victory.

The big building has not been in use. It housed the Reich's Parliament until 1933 when it was gutted by the sensational fire which the Nazis blamed on Communists and publicized widely in their move to power.

Since then the Reichstag has been under repair—the work not yet completed—again to House Parliament, which meanwhile has been meeting in the Kroll opera house to hear Chancellor Adolf Hitler's speech.

Another historic spot, visited by all sightseers to the German capital, that was a target for the British fliers, was the famous Brandenburg gate in Unter Den Linden, considered the most beautiful and busiest part of the city. The gate, at the west end of the Linden, was erected in 1788-91 in imitation of the Propylea in Athens, 85 feet high and 205 feet wide, topped by a copper victory statue taken to Paris by the French in 1807 and returned in 1814.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The class will come to order for its first quiz of the fall term.

Q: Who is Ellery Queen, the mystery writer?

A: Ellery Queen isn't a fellow. He's two Jewish boys who produce radio shows in addition to writing murder mysteries. Previously they wrote under the name of Barnaby Ross.

Q: In London No. 10 Downing street is the address of the prime minister, but what is it in New York?

A: No. 10 Downing street in New York is a parking lot. It's down in the Village and it'll cost you a quarter if you want to park your hack there.

Q: What usually happens to laundrymen who fail?

A: Well, Arch Selwyn once owned a laundry in Puerto Rico. After it failed he returned to New York and became a famous Broadway producer.

Q: Have you ever heard the names of Thelma, Narvol, and Ursell?

A: Maybe you have to come from Utah to hear names like that. They are the sisters of prettiness Lorraine Day, the little Mormon girl who went to Hollywood and got a break but who wasn't too blasé to stare when the Hollywood promoters brought her on a build-up visit to New York. "My mother just makes up names like that," explains Lorraine. "But if you think they're unusual, wait'll I tell you about my uncle, whose name will kill you. It's Snellen Ichabod."

Q: Where is Tin Pan Alley?

A: It isn't anywhere. It's a legendary street that doesn't actually exist and never has. When song writers in the old days banged their tinny pianos in search of melodies, they sometimes made an awful fuss. From this far-fetched source the name of Tin Pan Alley has grown into a mythical high-road of hit tune composers. Tin Pan Alley is where you find it. It is wherever songs are born.

Q: Finally, how about a few of the inconsistencies that make New York what it is?

A: Well, there are no banks on Bank street, the 7th avenue street car runs on Broadway and the Broadway trolley runs on 7th avenue; Abe Lyman is the only orchestra leader in town who began life as a taxi driver, and the North river is west of Manhattan. Furthermore, there are no brooms sold on Broom street, and Pershing Square isn't a square but merely an intersection in 42nd street.

YEARS AGO IN WARREN

Interesting Items Taken From the Warren Evening Times

In 1920

The automobile races at the Fair Grounds Friday afternoon were as interesting as if they had been staged by professional drivers. The most serious accident of the day occurred when the Andrege car, driven by Harry Munksgard, went through the fence on the seventh lap.

There have been no indications of a return of last year's influenza epidemic this winter. Health experts do not expect the disease to be as widespread or as virulent this year as in 1919.

A number of Warrenites who have seen service in the various countries with which the United States has been at war are planning to establish a Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars here.

One of the most entertaining features of Old Home Week was held last night when thousands were treated to the greatest fireworks display that has ever been witnessed in this city.

The Mummer's parade, that will bring to a close the Old Home Week celebration, will be held to night.

In 1930

Warren singers made a fine showing yesterday afternoon in the fourth annual Atwater Kent radio audition held at the Philomel Club. Those who took part in the contest were Donald MacDowell, Robert E. Kinander, Miss Charlotte Weller, Bentz James Horne and Miss Bessie Strickland.

Warren county's Gold Star Mothers, Mrs. Augusta Anderson, of this city, and Mrs. Ida Wagner, of Barnes, arrived this morning on the early train from New York City enroute from their pilgrimage to France.

Those who took part in the assembly program at the high school this morning were Rachel Olson, Wallace Lott, Frank Gray, Ruth Aubitz, Crescence Ebel, Eugenia Kehr and Edith Stein.

The committee consisting of E. H. Donovan, R. Z. Morrison, F. E. Redding and General Secretary Kottmann, announced today that work on the addition to the Y. M. C. A. building to house the indoor miniature golf course will be started tomorrow.

District Attorney L. C. Eddy gave an interesting talk before the Zonta Club members yesterday on the duties of his office.

In the production of optical materials, particularly those which obtain a high degree of transmission in the ultraviolet region, platinum crucibles are used.

The soil conservation service has assisted farmers in applying soil conservation methods to 5,500,000 acres in the southwest "dust bowl" since 1934.

Was Washington Wrong In Training His Army?

THE American colonial army was little more than an untrained patriotic rabble when George Washington assumed command at Cambridge in 1775. Washington is shown taking command on the stamp above, one of the U. S. Lexington-Concord issue of 1925, commemorating the 150th anniversary of the first battle of the Revolution.

Military critics now believe Washington was wrong in trying to make his army conform to British standards of strategy and discipline. Most of the Americans were expert marksmen, but they had no liking for lines, squares and bayonets. They preferred to hide behind rocks and trees, pick off their British enemies.

Washington wanted an army with strict discipline, drilled in military tactics of the period. He hated the familiarity of officers and men, tried to make regulations and have them kept.

But the rabble army showed its courage at Lexington and Concord and again at Bunker Hill. The Americans made their best showing at Bunker Hill, losing only 441 men to the British 1054.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Answering the mail orders:

H. J. L. Albany, Minn.—Claude R. Wickard, the new secretary of agriculture, is definitely not a farside farmer. Graduating from Purdue university in 1915, he hid right back to the 380-acre Carroll county, Indiana, farm that has been in his family for 100 years, and started immediately experimenting with some theories he had picked up in college—but it was dirt farming, not office-chair stuff. He did some real pioneering in the soil rehabilitation work and once was selected by a farm magazine as "master farmer of Indiana."

Right now, the 47-year-old secretary gets his biggest kick in life out of getting back to the farm and helping the hired hands harvest a crop. He has a husky, solid frame and a healthy grin that runs off in wrinkles at the corner of his eyes. He is sometimes referred to as "a swell dresser," but he looks plenty at ease in old wrinkled trousers, a pair of weather-beaten brogans, and an open-collared shirt.

He did a bit of dabbling in politics out in Indiana, getting himself elected to the state senate in 1922 but resigned a little more than a year later to come to Washington in a comparatively minor capacity in the old Agricultural Adjustment Administration. He likes to refer to himself as an "Andrew Jackson Democrat." His father and his grandfather both were christened Andrew Jackson Wickard.

In Washington, the Wickards (there are two daughters, but only one in school this winter and the other working in Indianapolis) practically keep open house for the many friends who drift through here from the Middle West. But whenever there's a holiday you find the secretary of agriculture back in Carroll county pitching hay or feeding the hogs. Incidentally, he is one of the first cabinet members here to come up through the ranks of his department.

K. D. Bristol, Va.—The Army and Navy are being so cagey

these days, it is almost impossible to get any information out of either, but I believe the Army plans to call up about 6,000 reserve officers for extended duty. These men will not be called up all at once, however. They will be infiltrated into the training program as expansion demands. It might even be months before they get around to the reserve officer friend you mention and the fact that another acquaintance of yours has been called is hardly any indication that the former has any special pull.

W. E. D. Fort Worth, Tex.—Thanks for your enlightening letter on Gov. "Pass-the-biscuits-pappy" W. Lee O'Daniel. I hope the good people of Texas continue to enjoy that "blackout of higher taxes."

Mrs. N. D. C. Kansas City, Kas.—The reason that I have not carried any instructions on the alien registration and fingerprinting is simply that although this is a national program, it is local in every community and I am sure that the hometown papers have carried the instructions from the agents. Aliens who have taken out first papers do have to register. The registration period closes day after Christmas. Aliens not registering by that time are liable to $1,000 fine and six months in jail. I think that, in every community, the registration is taking place in postoffices and registration division officials assure me that in no instance anywhere do the police fingerprinting departments have anything to do with it.

T. R. B. Fairview, Neb.—To put it briefly, the Agriculture department says the 1941 farm program is virtually a continuation of the present program, so I should think you could believe your farm agents that any benefits you received this year will be forthcoming next. Since the Republicans, neither through Mr. Willkie nor Senator McNary, have given any hint of changes in the farm program, I can see no reason for thinking now that even a change in Administration would result in any material change in agricultural legislation.

POLITICAL FORUM

Articles appearing in this department are furnished by representatives of the respective parties in Warren county and are not intended to reflect the views or opinions of the publisher.

REPUBLICAN

If there were no other issues in this campaign except the efficiency of the New Deal, the answer would still be easy. If the Republicans were in absolute harmony and agreement with every premise advanced by the New Deal, still the failure of the New Deal would be the factor to overwhelm it.

Suppose, for example, the differences in political philosophy that divide the two major parties were laid aside; suppose it is agreed that all the New Dealers call "good" is, in fact good. Still, the New Deal administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt would stand indicted as a miserable failure.

It has attained not one of its far flung objectives. Let us mention only a few: Harmony within the ranks of organized labor and between labor and management, an end to involuntary unemployment, a higher standard of living for the farmer, security for all through old age "benefits."

There were other roseate dreams most of them having to do with protection: the protection of the small business man; the protection of innocent investors from the illicit stock salesman, and, of late the protection of this hemisphere or part of this hemisphere, if we can find any neighbors "good" enough.

It has all been "sound and fury signifying nothing." Now has the New Deal an excuse to offer. It has had time, nearly eight years of it, and money, nearly sixty billion dollars of it, as well as a clear Democratic majority in both houses of Congress willing to yield up more and more power as it was demanded.

It is probably beside the point to suggest that you do not get harmony by playing favorites, nor create employment by attacking business, nor increase farm income by destroying the crops, nor find security in taxation. It is beside the point because the New Deal has now shrugged all its failures aside, and now is preparing to direct its well known efficiency to the gigantic task of defending the United States. God help America!

DEMOCRAT

Walter Lippman, columnist of the strongly Republican Herald-Tribune of New York and a columnist and supporter of Wendell Wilkie, has already become disillusioned about his hero and in one of his latest pieces virtually concedes that as a candidate he is a flop. It amounts to a confession that the utility party candidate hasn't a chance.

After pointing out that the Republican leadership in Congress is almost wholly isolationist, Mr. Lippman bewails the fact that Mr. Wilkie is so lacking in the qualities of leadership himself that he cannot get members of the party whose emblem he is using to follow him. "And so," says Mr. Lippman, "until Mr. Wilkie brings his own party to the support of his own pledges, he is plainly in no position to challenge the President on any issue or to criticize the efficiency of what is now being done for national defense. The first condition of leadership is to be able to lead one's own followers."

"A President without a party is, as we know from the sad histories of President Taft and President Hoover, hopelessly and helplessly stalled. . . . two months have passed without his becoming the actual leader of his party. For leadership does not consist in making speeches and giving out interviews. It consists in inducing other men to act. And as yet there is no indication that the Republican party leaders in Congress have paid the slightest attention to Mr. Wilkie's views on any great issue."

This the Herald-Tribune columnist believes, explains Mr. Wilkie's failure to gain ground since his nomination. The movement behind his nomination "has bogged down." Mr. Lippman continues, and "it is surely the fact that since June the enthusiasm for Wilkie has been noticeably chilled as week after week, in the midst of the most critical period of modern history, Mr. Wilkie remained remote from the scene of action, reserved on the great controversial issues, and personally isolated from the critical decisions which are shaping the destiny of the country."

PLEASING TALK IS ENJOYED BY WOMEN'S GROUP

Youngsville, Sept. 10—Youngsville Business and Professional Woman's Club met Monday evening with Mrs. Harry Canfield at the Fairmont Hotel with a good attendance, including several prospective members.

Mrs. Gladys Swanson, the president, presided at the business session in which plans were made for a card party at the house owned by Mr. and Mrs. Canfield on Ford street, to be held Wednesday afternoon and evening, September 11, and a Smorgasbord on the evening of October 17.

The speaker of the evening was Mrs. Jessie Anderson, of Boston, who is a guest of Mrs. Nellie Anderson. Mrs. Anderson told of a trip around the world in which she spent almost a year with a son and family near Johannesburg, Africa. Mrs. Anderson described a visit to an African gold mine and several days spent with her son and his family in the more than a hundred mile wild animal park in Africa. In this great tract no animals are hunted. They saw many lions in their wild state as well as other large game. She described many places of interest, such as the Suez Canal, points of interest and ports along the Mediterranean sea, including Gibraltar. She visited England and Scotland.

Following the travel talk, a group of vocal solos were sung by Miss Dorothy Nyquist and several violin duets by Miss Margery Hendrickson and Arthur Briggs.

Pleasing refreshments were served by the hostess in the dining room.

AS surely as the new Buick FIREBALL* straight-eight engine sets the performance pace for the coming season, the graceful silhouette of the new Buick SPECIAL and CENTURY cuts the automotive style pattern for another half decade.

The reason is not alone the grace of its Buick-created lines, nor the appearance of solid substance in action that gives this honey the look of a speedster straining at its leash.

It is the practical quality of great room enclosed in sleek and flowing lines—more room for legs, for elbows, for heads, more room for entrance and more room for carrying luggage—that makes this the silhouette the cars of the future will seek to achieve.

Why wait for that—when in this Buick you travel in a car that, like time and tide, obviously isn't waiting for any man?

Earlier in the year, when Morrie Elis won the world championship Masters individual contest, I wrote a series of articles which proved the fine partnership game Elis plays.

In winning the world championship Masters pair event, Elis and Harry Fishbein demonstrated to the field that they are one of the greatest match point pairs in the game today.

In my opinion, one of the finest demonstrations of confidence in your partner was today's hand, taken from the Masters pair event. Elis made the natural opening bid of a club, and the opponent's overcall of one heart will not be criticized. Holding so many hearts, Fishbein decided not to double, as the opponents would then run out to a safe contract, and he was willing to wait before taking any action. When Elis was doubled at two clubs, however, Fishbein decided to bid two hearts, and in passing two hearts, Elis gave a great exhibition of partnership confidence.

The opening lead was won in dummy with the ace of spades.

Reorganized Concert Unit Plans to Present Don Cossacks September 25

A group of persons who have served as officials in several former local concert associations met at the Warren Conservatory of Music Tuesday evening for the purpose of reorganizing for this season and providing a series of concerts through affiliation with independent concert managements.

Requests have been made repeatedly for a return engagement of the Serge Jaroff Don Cossack Chorus, heard here last St. Valentine's Day under the auspices of the Philomel Club, and it was voted unanimously to build this year's concert course about this outstanding musical organization.

When it was learned on Monday that if action were taken at once, it would be possible to secure the Don Cossacks on September 29 as the first attraction on this year's schedule, the group voted to organize a membership campaign to be conducted next week, Monday through Saturday.

One of the two remaining numbers will be a piano recital by Abram Chasins, internationally known pianist-composer, first artist to make recordings for Steinway and composer of the competition number used in this year's Forensic League contests at Harrisburg.

The third concert will be decided upon and announced later. Campaign headquarters are being arranged for and will be announced at once, together with the workers, who are asked to meet next Monday night at eight o'clock in the Conservatory music hall to receive their lists, applications and other campaign supplies.

It was decided to retain most of last year's officers, with Dr. LeRoy B. Campbell as president; Mrs. W. M. Robertson, Rev. E. R. Wroth, Mrs. Allie Russell, Miss Anna G. Rockwell, R. W. Steber and J. E. Hazeltine as vice presidents; Mrs. T. H. Conway, secretary; Arthur Langdon as newly elected as treasurer of the organization and Lyle N. Schuler was voted membership chairman and campaign manager.

District Official Installs Officers of the American Legion Auxiliary; Making Plans

Mrs. Robert Russell, of Custer City, president of the Inter-City Council and director of the North-western District of the Pennsylvania American Legion Auxiliary, visited the local unit at its regular meeting last evening for the purpose of installing its officers.

The ceremonial inducted into office the following slate: President, Mrs. Larry Krespan; first vice president, Mrs. C. D. Cannon; second vice president, Mrs. Clair Proulx; secretary, Mrs. Howard Casey; assistant secretary, Mrs. Fred Siggins; treasurer, Mrs. Melvin Johnson; chaplain, Mrs. Henry Appel; historian, Miss Florence Hill; sergeant at arms, Mrs. Ralph Chester.

Accompanying Mrs. Russell were three other Bradford guests: Mrs. Whitford, auxiliary president; Mrs. Peck and Mrs. Dorothy Cloud, past presidents.

During the regular business meeting of the unit, a great many plans for future activities were discussed. These included arrangements for the party to be held jointly with post members on Friday night of this week to mark the anniversary of General John J. Pershing. There will be dancing and a buffet supper and Mrs. Howard Casey and Mrs. Elmer Munksgaard are in charge of arrangements.

Mention was made of the rummage sale to be held in the Morell building on Friday and Saturday of this week and Mrs. Ralph Chester, chairman, asked that all articles be brought to the rear of the storerooms Thursday for sorting and marking.

The Gold Star Mothers' party in conjunction with the next regular meeting on September 24 was discussed. It was decided to have a 6:30 tureen dinner, with Mrs. C. D. Cannon heading the committee of past officers in charge. Mrs. Harriet Morley is arranging the evening's program.

Mrs. Harry Nelson, retiring president, was presented with a past president's pin by Mrs. Effie Spiedel, herself a former president of the unit.

Announcement was made that a public showing for the unit's merchandise club will be held on the street floor of the Metzger-Wright Company store on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

The new president and secretary, Mrs. Krespan and Mrs. Casey, will go to Harrisburg the middle of October to attend the annual conference of presidents and secretaries, members were told.

It is expected that Mrs. Krespan will announce within a short time her standing committees for the coming year.

At the conclusion of the evening, refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. Milton Witz.

Reorganized Concert Unit Plans to Present Don Cossacks September 25

A group of persons who have served as officials in several former local concert associations met at the Warren Conservatory of Music Tuesday evening for the purpose of reorganizing for this season and providing a series of concerts through affiliation with independent concert managements.

Requests have been made repeatedly for a return engagement of the Serge Jaroff Don Cossack Chorus, heard here last St. Valentine's Day under the auspices of the Philomel Club, and it was voted unanimously to build this year's concert course about this outstanding musical organization.

When it was learned on Monday that, if action were taken at once, it would be possible to secure the Don Cossacks on September 29 as the first attraction on this year's schedule, the group voted to organize a membership campaign to be conducted next week, Monday through Saturday.

One of the two remaining numbers will be a piano recital by Abram Chasins, internationally known pianist-composer, first artist to make recordings for Steinway and composer of the competition number used in this year's Forensic League contests at Harrisburg.

The third concert will be decided upon and announced later. Campaign headquarters are being arranged for and will be announced at once together with the workers, who are asked to meet next Monday night at eight o'clock in the Conservatory music hall to receive their lists, applications and other campaign supplies.

It was decided to retain most of last year's officers, with Dr. LeRoy B. Campbell as president; Mrs. W. M. Robertson, Rev. E. P. Wroth, Mrs. Alice Russell, Miss Anna G. Rockwell, R. W. Steber and J. E. Hazeltine as vice presidents; Mrs. T. H. Conway, secretary; Arthur Langdon was newly elected as treasurer of the organization and Lyle N. Schuler was voted membership chairman and campaign manager.

Lefty Grove Subdues Detroit Tigers In 13 Frames, 6-5

Tribe One Percentage Point Ahead; Pirates Pick On Lowly Phils

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
Life does begin at forty and Lefty Grove, the gaunt ghost with a magnificent past and doubtful future, has returned to haunt the trembling American League as proof.

Lefty Grove

Old Mose maneuvered through 13 innings yesterday to conquer the Detroit Tigers 6-5 and cast the chaotic pennant race into greater confusion with Cleveland again in front.

Earlier this season old Mose, who was 40 last March, seldom managed to last nine innings. When he broke a bone in his foot in August and was reported lost to the season, he was 41.

to the Boston Red Sox for the year, nobody figured it made much difference to Boston one way or the other—except sentimentally.

Yesterday Grove was up against the leading pitcher of the league, Buck Newsom, winner of 18 games against three losses, and a gallant team that was on the hot end of a five-game winning streak and in first place in the league.

Grove gave up three hits, one of them Hank Greenberg's 30th home run, for three tallies in the first inning. But after that he allowed only one run in the next ten innings and was never behind after his teammates tied up the score at 3-all in the sixth.

The Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees were kept idle by rain yesterday and both gained through Detroit's downfall, leaving this situation:

Club	W.	L.	Pc.	Games behind
Cleveland	76	57	.571	—
Detroit	77	58	.570	—
New York	75	57	.568	1 1/2
Boston	73	62	.541	4

In the other American League action yesterday the Washington Senators subdued the Chicago White Sox 5-2, with Ken Chase pitching six-hit ball and his teammates producing the season's third triple play in the ninth inning, and the Athletics whipped the St. Louis Browns 6-4 in a night game by Frank Hayes and Bob Johnson.

The only National League games that escaped the rain were in a doubleheader that Pittsburgh captured from the Phillies 11-3 and 11-1 in two big battling displays. Catcher Ben Warren of the Phils was "beaten" by one of Rip Sewell's pitches in the first game and hurt seriously.

CHAPMAN LEADS THE AMATEURS BY FIVE SHOTS

Manassas, N. Y., Sept. 11—(P)—The qualifying scramble ended, 64 golfers from the cities and from the forks of the creek paired off at winged Foot club today in two "sudden death" rounds of match play in the National Amateur championship.

In the last two days the field of hopefuls had been reduced from a cumbersome 146. At dusk tonight there were due to be only 16 left to carry on the cut-throat competition. They go fast in the Amateur.

Gone were such notables as Johnny Goodman, George Dunlap Jr., Chick Evans and Francis Gilmour—all former champions. Gone also was young John Cies of Hamburg, N. Y., who shot a sparkling 71 on his first qualifying round and then soared to a remarkable 87 on his second try. He used up nine strokes on one hole, the 15th.

Dick Chapman of Winged Foot was the one they all were watching as he teed off in his first test today. Dick, a night club crooner during the off-season, shot two sub-par rounds of 71-69 to capture medal honors by what apparently was a record margin. His two-day total was five strokes better than the 145's registered by Marvin Ward of Spokane, Wash., the defending champion, and by Duff McCullough of Philadelphia.

Dick Chapman

Next best margin appeared to be the four strokes by which Bobby Jones distanced his amateur rivals in 1926. Still, Chapman lacked a stroke of equalling the qualifying record of 139 set last year by Tom Sheehan.

Scores of 155 or better qualified all except the 155 shot by Tom Barnes of Atlanta. There were eight at that figure, and in the knock-out competition for seven places just before dark Barnes got mixed up in the rough and took a six. It was fatal.

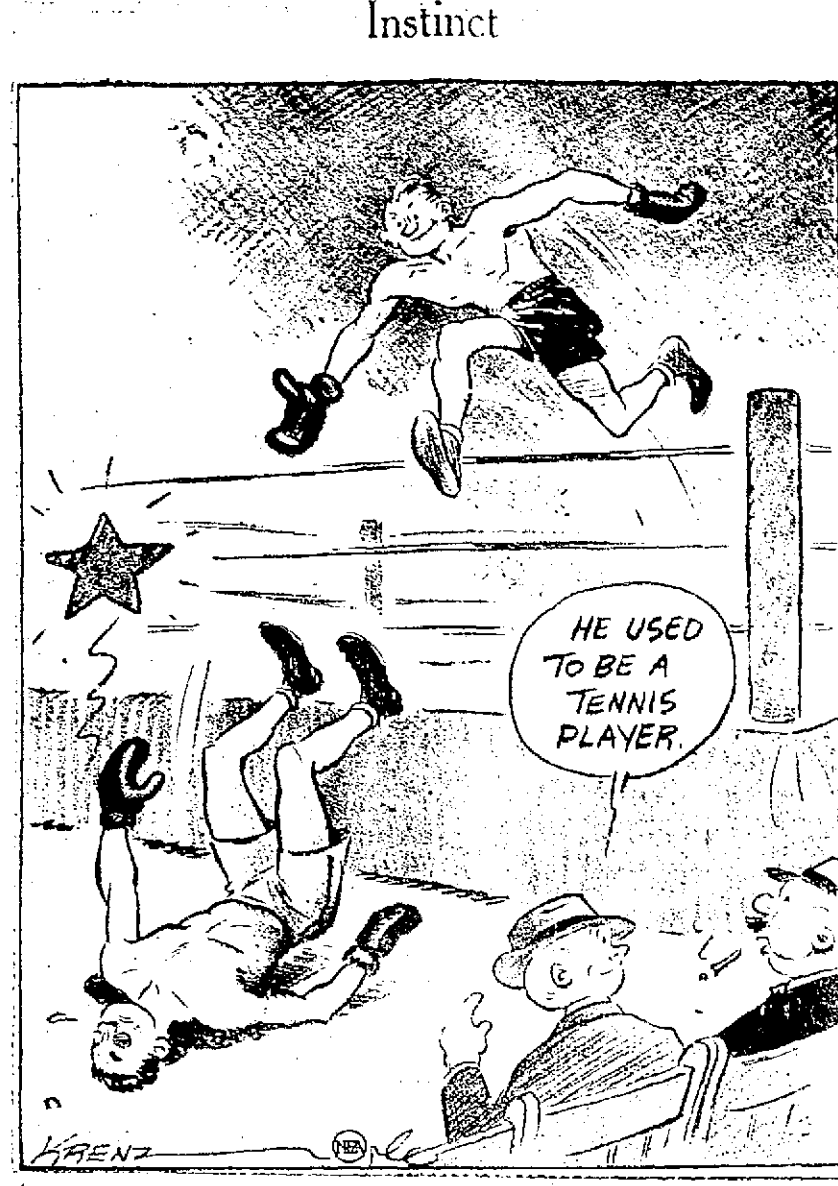

Four players tied at 146 for the two rounds: George Dawson of Chicago; Maurice McCarthy Jr. of Cincinnati, who led at the end of the first round; Tom Whiteway of Cleveland and Harold Mandly of Avon, Conn. Frank Strafaci of Brooklyn, Freddie Haas of New Orleans and Steve Kovach of Pittsburgh were tied at 147. Bob Clark of St. Paul, the National Public Links champion, failed to qualify with his 164.

Bing Crosby missed the train, too, with his 83-77, much to the disappointment of the tournament committee and an adoring gallery, but he made a commendable comeback.

WANANGO GIRL IS TOURNEY SURVIVOR
Pittsburgh, Sept. 11—(P)—Mrs. T. E. Nolan of New Castle, defending title, was a slight favorite today over Betty Abernethy, of Oakland, former state champion, in the leading second round match of the West Penn Women's Golf championship.

Mrs. Nolan scored the most decisive victory in the championship fight, yesterday, eliminating Mrs. H. E. McCann, of Oakland, 6 and 5. Miss Abernethy defeated Janet Fleming, of State College, in the next best margin of the day, 5 and 4.

Sixteen-year-old Daryl Smith, of Edgewood, youngest to compete in the tournament for years, was subdued by another youngster, Martha McPherson, 18, Wanango, by 3 and 2. Young Mary Gillette, Corry, lost by the same margin to Mrs. Victor Sheehan, Chartiers Heights. Mrs. J. H. Heim, of Kane, was ousted 4 and 3 by Katherine McCloskey, of Oakland.

SPORT SCATTERINGS

There seems to be nothing in the way of another great independent football team for Warren, final details having been worked out this week to the mutual satisfaction of the players and Pete Panatier, who has once again shown his public spirit by offering to put up the ready cash needed to get the uniforms out of the hands of the creditors who were left holding the bag a couple of seasons ago and took a chance of making something last season—and lost. Sometimes we wish they had picked another color than "red" for the uniforms. The boys have agreed to see that the genial Texas Lunch proprietor is reimbursed and then take their cuts at the end of the season, with the suits remaining available for whatever club represents the community. Of course, these lads who will play this season will probably outwear the scarlet livery.

Our prophecy that the absence of so-called All-Americans would be more than compensated by the pep and go-go displayed by the younger gridgers evidently wasn't too far from the mark. About a score of candidates are working out every night and keep hard at it until darkness halts their activities. You can expect the same enthusiasm when they stack up against real competition, and that spirit will go a long, long way toward providing top-notch ball. As always, a couple of ex-college stars have bobbed up, including an ex-Carnegie luminary and a former John Carroll center, who are working out regularly.

We tried to learn a little about Joe Leson's Girard Yellow Jackets, who buzz into Russell Field next Saturday, but the mentor frankly stated he had no idea what to expect from his charges. The Jackets lost weight through graduation, but Joe admits what they lost in poundage they made up in speed. He has eight lettermen in his starting lineup, five in the line, and his offense will probably center around his triple-threat back, Captain Dave Daggett, a plenty sweet fullback. It's quite evident that Girard is no push-over, and the result of Saturday's game may give us a pretty fair line on what to expect from the Dragons against the rest of their scheduled opponents.

YEARS AGO IN SPORTS
September 11, 1920—In one of the most exciting games seen in Warren this year, the Butter-Krysts yesterday defeated Brookville 7-0 on the South Side diamond. Two runs scored by the locals in the ninth decided the game. Art Johnson allowed only seven hits, while Miller, the Brookville pitcher, was even stungier, giving up only four, but the Krysts hit when they were needed. An argument between fans near the end of the game threatened to become serious, but the police were on hand to escort one gentleman to the city building.

September 11, 1930—Mrs. H. L. Banghart, of this city, yesterday stepped to the forefront of the Western Pennsylvania Women's Golf championship when she defeated Mrs. J. A. Ellen, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, 1 up. According to a Pittsburgh paper, Mrs. Banghart has been playing beautiful golf, but her victory over Mrs. Ellen was the sensation of the tournament thus far. Today Mrs. Banghart meets Miss Betty Abernethy, of Oakland, in the semi-finals. Mrs. Roland Carles lost her first consolation match to Mrs. Chester Lehman. Miss Lavelette Rockwell remained in the fourth flight by defeating Mrs. Frank Atkins.

Browns Offered Indians $7500 for Sewell, But Slapnicka Didn't Know How Far He'd Go With Vitt and Wanted Old Catcher Available

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

CORDIALLY disliked and openly criticized by Cyril Slapnicka, Oscar Vitt was headed for the exit in Cleveland early last season when Luke Sewell was signed as a prospective manager.

Vitt's position was no more secure at the start of the current campaign, which is why the Indians rejected a $7500 offer for Sewell, who wasn't even on the active player list.

Fred Haney of the Browns suspected that Sewell could still do something with Vernon Kennedy, the fiery right-hander who won 21 games for the White Sox pitching to the Alabama veteran in 1935.

So Haney approached Vitt, over whose head Sewell was brought into the Cleveland picture.

"You can have Sewell free, gratis and for nothing," said Vitt, who would have been happy to be rid of his logical successor.

SO it was with some degree of optimism that Don Barnes, president of the St. Louis club, made an unprecedented bid for a coach, only to be advised by Alva Bradley, the Tribal chief, that "Mr. Slapnicka did not know how far he would go with Oscar Vitt, and wanted Sewell available as manager in the event a change was made."

Haney then agreed to give Sewell back to the Indians if he was desired as the manager.

Haney pointed out the disadvantages that would confront Sewell stepping from the Cleveland coach's box to the management . . . tried to show Tribe officials how much better off the old backstop would be hopping from St. Louis to Cleveland with a fresh slant.

BUT that has been the Cleveland club's poor policy before . . . having what it considers a suitable man ready and waiting for the manager to play out his string. Steve O'Neill was there when Walter Johnson was given the bum's rush for no reason at all.

It is difficult for a manager to gain and keep the respect of players who know the front office has such little faith in him that it already has a substitute on the ground.

Such a situation cannot help but divide the house against itself, especially when the manager of the moment is rowing with the vice president and general manager and mutinous athletes find a mat of welcome and swinging doors leading to the president's desk.

When Oscar Vitt goes—win or lose—at the end of the season, Alva Bradley might give the job to Al Schacht.

Al Schacht would at least retain his sense of humor.

KAMPOURIS GOES TO BROOKLYN DODGERS

Brooklyn, Sept. 11 (P)—The Dodgers announced today they had purchased Alex Kampouris, home run slugger of the Newark Bears of the International League, for an undisclosed sum of cash and a player to be named later. The money involved was believed to have been between $15,000 and $25,000.

By selling the slick hitting, long hitting second baseman today, the New York Yankee organization, which Newark is a unit, escaped having Kampouris fall eligible for the baseball draft whereby any major league club could have claimed him for $7,500.

Although Kampouris is batting a modest .278, he has hit 36 home runs, 23 doubles, four triples and batted in 91 runs.

WELTER CHAMP IS IN TITLE MUDDLE

New York, Sept. 11 (P)—The New York State Athletic Association has postponed for a week a decision on the projected welterweight title fight at Madison Square Garden October 3 between Champion Henry Armstrong and Fritz Zivic, of Pittsburgh.

Armstrong posted a $2,500 forfeit to make the next title defense in New York, but later signed to meet Phil Kurr in Washington in a championship match the last of this month. If he goes through with the Kurr engagement he will lose his forfeit and the New York commission will not recognize the bout as a title meeting.

BOWLING ASSOCIATION MEETING ON FRIDAY

Ed C. Lowrey, president of the Warren Bowling Association, has called a meeting of representatives of the various leagues under A. B. C. registration, to be held Friday night at eight o'clock at the Elks Club.

Due to this meeting, the captains and bowlers of the Lehigh Valley League will meet at 7 o'clock instead of 7:30 as previously scheduled. This latter meeting will be at the Arcade alleys.

Sports Roundup

BY EDDIE BRIEFZ
New York, Sept. 11—Ty Cobb's reason for not buying a minor league club (in which he was very much interested) was because it would interfere with his golf. How! . . . Jack Dempsey is having trouble with his little girls. No sooner had he rushed Barbara home by plane from Salt Lake City with an infected throat than Joan fell in Central Park and broke a leg . . . Question of who is the power hitter in golf has been settled for the time being, anyway. Thomson averaged 288 yards, Snead, 266 and Oliver, 256 . . . Nittany Lions Hope To Repeat 1939 Grid Record This Season

State College, Sept. 11 (P)—last year's captain and star end, Penn State's Nittany Lions, fat-tened by last year's best season in years hope to do even better on the gridiron this fall.

Much depends, however, on whether Coach Bob Higgins can replace three key players lost by the team last year: headliners, Captain Leon Gajecki, all-state center last year, heads the impressive list of returning lettermen. Other veterans are Mike Garbinski and Wade Mori, guards; Carl Stravinski, Frank Platt, Walt Kniaz and Len Frkietich, tackles; Tom Vargo, end; and Chuck Peters, Craig White, Bill Smaltz, Johnny Patrick, Pepper Petrella and Harry Krouse, backs.

Lloyd Parsons, a veteran last year, looks as the best bet to all the end position left vacant by Alter's graduation. White alternated with Rollins at halfback and has the ability to step into a starting position, while Smaltz, a triple-threat, 195-pound junior, stands out as the probable replacement for Ickes.

Sophomores expected to give the veterans the hardest opposition include Ralph Ventreson, 195-pound fullback from Pitscairn; Jack Korus, 210-pound guard from Lansdowne, and Paul Weaver, 195-pound blocking back from Harrisburg.

Higgins, starting his 11th season as head coach, must groom the Lions for this schedule:

Oct. 5, Bucknell; 12, West Virginia; 19, Lehigh; at Bethlehem; 26, Temple at Philadelphia; Nov. 2, South Carolina; Nov. 9, Syracuse at Syracuse; 16, New York University; 23, Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.

There seems to be nothing in the way of another great independent football team for Warren, final details having been worked out this week to the mutual satisfaction of the players and Pete Panaritis, who has once again shown his public spirit by offering to put up the ready cash needed to get the uniforms out of the hands of the creditors who were left holding the bag a couple of seasons ago and took a chance of making something last season—and lost. Sometimes we wish they had picked another color than "red" for the uniforms. The boys have agreed to see that the genial Texas Lunch proprietor is reimbursed and then take their cuts at the end of the season, with the suits remaining available for whatever club represents the community. Of course, these lads who will play this season will probably outwear the scarlet livery.

Our prophesy that the absence of so-called All-Americans would be more than compensated by the pep and go-go displayed by the younger griders evidently wasn't too far from the mark. About a score of candidates are working out every night and keep hard at it until darkness halts their activities. You can expect the same enthusiasm when they stack up against real competition, and that spirit will go a long, long way toward providing top-notch ball. As always, a couple of ex-college stars have bobbed up, including an ex-Carnegie luminary and a former John Carroll center, who are working out regularly.

We tried to learn a little about Joe Leson's Girard Yellow Jackets, who buzz into Russell Field next Saturday, but the mentor frankly stated he had no idea what to expect from his charges. The Jackets lost weight through graduation, but Joe admits what they lost in poundage they made up in speed. He has eight lettermen in his starting lineup, five in the line, and his offense will probably center around his triple-threat back, Captain Dave Daggett, a plenty sweet fullback. It's quite evident that Girard is no push-over, and the result of Saturday's game may give us a pretty fair line on what to expect from the Dragons against the rest of their scheduled opponents.

YEARS AGO IN SPORTS

September 11, 1920—In one of the most exciting games seen in Warren this year, the Butter-Krusts yesterday defeated Brookville 7-6 on the South Side diamond. Two runs scored by the locals in the deciding game. Art Johnson allowed only seven hits, while Miller, the Brookville pitcher, was even stingier, giving up only four, but the Krusts hit when they were needed. An argument between fans near the end of the game threatened to become serious, but the police were on hand to escort one gentleman to the city building.

September 11, 1930—Mrs. H. L. Banghart, of this city, yesterday stepped to the forefront of the Western Pennsylvania Women's Golf championship when she defeated Mrs. J. A. Ellen, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, 1 up. According to a Pittsburgh paper, Mrs. Banghart has been playing beautiful golf, but her victory over Mrs. Ellen was the sensation of the tournament thus far. Today Mrs. Banghart meets Miss Betty Abernethy, of Oakmont, in the semi-finals. Mrs. Roland Carles lost her first consolation match to Mrs. Chester Lehman. Miss Lavelette Rockwell remained in the fourth flight by defeating Mrs. Frank Atkins.

Browns Offered Indians $7500 for Sewell, But Slapnicka Didn't Know How Far He'd Go With Vitt and Wanted Old Catcher Available

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

CORDIALLY disliked and openly criticized by Cyril Slapnicka, Oscar Vitt was headed for the exit in Cleveland early last season when Luke Sewell was signed as a prospective manager.

Vitt's position was no more secure at the start of the current campaign, which is why the Indians rejected a $7500 offer for Sewell, who wasn't even on the active player list.

Fred Haney of the Browns suspected that Sewell could still do something with Vernon Kennedy, the fiery right-hander who won 21 games for the White Sox pitching to the Alabama veteran in 1936.

So Haney approached Vitt, over whose head Sewell was brought into the Cleveland picture.

"You can have Sewell free, gratis and for nothing," said Vitt, who would have been happy to be rid of his logical successor.

So it was with some degree of optimism that Don Barnes, president of the St. Louis club, made an unprecedented bid for a coach, only to be advised by Alva Bradley, the Tribal chief, that "Mr. Slapnicka did not know how far he would go with Oscar Vitt, and wanted Sewell available as manager in the event a change was made."

Haney then agreed to give Sewell back to the Indians if he was desired as the manager.

Haney pointed out the disadvantages that would confront Sewell stepping from the Cleveland coach's box to the management. . . . tried to show Tribe officials how much better off the old backstop would be hopping from St. Louis to Cleveland with a fresh slant.

BUT that has been the Cleveland club's poor policy before . . . having what it considers a suitable man ready and waiting for the manager to play out his string. Steve O'Neill was there when Walter Johnson was given the bum's rush for no reason at all.

It is difficult for a manager to gain and keep the respect of players who know the front office has such little faith in him that it already has a substitute on the ground.

Such a situation cannot help but divide the house against itself, especially when the manager of the moment is rowing with the vice president and general manager and mutinous athletes find a mat of welcome and swinging doors leading to the president's desk.

When Oscar Vitt goes—win or lose—at the end of the season, Alva Bradley might give the job to Al Schacht.

Al Schacht would at least retain his sense of humor.

KAMPOURIS GOES TO BROOKLYN DODGERS

Brooklyn, Sept. 11.—(P)—The Dodgers announced today they had purchased Alex Kampouris, home run slugger of the Newark Bears of the International League, for an undisclosed sum of cash and a player to be named later. The money involved was believed to have been between $15,000 and $25,000.

By selling the slick fielding, long hitting second baseman today, the New York Yankee organization, of which Newark is a unit, escaped having Kampouris fall eligible for the baseball draft whereby any major league club could have claimed him for $7,500.

Although Kampouris is batting a modest .278, he has hit 36 home runs, 23 doubles, four triples and batted in 91 runs.

WELTER CHAMP IS IN TITLE MUDDLE

New York, Sept. 11.—(P)—The New York State Athletic Association has postponed for a week a decision on the projected welterweight title fight at Madison Square Garden October 3 between Champion Henry Armstrong and Fritz Zivic, of Pittsburgh.

Armstrong posted a $2,500 forfeit to make the next title defense in New York, but later signed to meet Phil Kurr in Washington in a championship match the last of this month. If he goes through with the Furr engagement he will lose his forfeit and the New York commission will not recognize the bout as a title meeting.

BOWLING ASSOCIATION MEETING ON FRIDAY

Ed C. Lowrey, president of the Warren Bowling Association, has called a meeting of representatives of the various leagues under A. B. C. registration, to be held Friday night at eight o'clock at the Elks Club.

Due to this meeting, the captains and bowlers of the Industrial League will meet at 7 o'clock instead of 7:30 as previously scheduled. This latter meeting will be at the Arcade alleys.

Sports Roundup

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Sept. 11.—Ty Cobb's reason for not buying a minor league club (in which he was very much interested) was because it would interfere with his golf. How? . . . Don Budge is advising Don McNeill, the new singles champion, not to turn pro for at least a year. . . . Sonja Honey is going to open her winter ice tour in Fort Worth. . . . Jack Dempsey is having tough luck with his little girls. No sooner had he rushed Barbara home by plane from Salt Lake City with an infected throat than Joan fell in Central Park and broke a leg. . . . Mike Jacobs is spiking reports he will retire from the boxing the day Joe Louis hangs up his gloves.

O. K. Mister

When Armstrong and Phil Furr collide And start to pound each other's hide, Please don't forget that it was I Who first cracked that the Furr will fly. . . . T. H. Miles.

And Still the Champ

Question of who is the power hitter in golf has been settled for the time being, anyway. Down at Scranton the other day, Jimmy Thomson, generally recognized as No. 1, and pretenders Sam Snead and Ed Oliver held a contest. Each whanged three blistering drives down the fairway. . . . Thomson averaged 288 yards. Snead, 266 and Oliver, 256. . . . Mrs. Bing Crosby preferred the Forest Hills tennis Monday to watching Bing shoot his snappy 83 in the amateur golf and we hope he don't feel hurt. . . .

Nittany Lions Hope To Repeat 1939 Grid Record This Season

State College, Sept. 11.—(P)—last year's captain and star end, Penn State's Nittany Lions, fattered by last year's best season in years, hope to do even better on the gridiron this fall.

Much depends, however, on whether Coach Bob Higgins can replace three key players lost by Captain Leon Gajecki, all-state center last year, heads the imposing list of returning lettermen. Other veterans are Mike Garbinski and Wade Mori, guards; Carl Stravinski, Frank Platt, Walt Kniaz and Len Frketch, tackles; Tom Vargo, end; and Chuck Peters, Craig White, Bill Smaltz, Johnny Patrick, Pepper Petrella and Harry Krouse, backs.

Lloyd Parsons, a veteran last year, looms as the best bet to fill the end position left vacant by Alter's graduation. White alternated with Rollins at halfback and has the ability to step into a starting position, while Smaltz, a triple-threat, 195-pound junior, stands out as the probable replacement for Ickes.

Sophomores expected to give the veterans the hardest opposition include Ralph Ventresco, 195-pound fullback from Pitsa; Jack Kearns, 210-pound guard from Lansdowne, and Paul Weaver, 195-pound blocking back from Harrisburg.

Higgins, starting his 11th season as head coach, must groom the Lions for this schedule:

Oct. 5, Bucknell; 12, West Virginia; 19, Lehigh at Bethlehem; 26, Temple at Philadelphia; Nov. 2, South Carolina; Nov. 9, Syracuse at Syracuse; 16, New York University; 23, Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.

HIGHER COURT DENIES BROWNMILLER APPEAL

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—(P)—The State Supreme Court today denied the petition of Roy E. Brownmiller, former secretary of highways, to appeal from a Dauphin county court conviction on an indictment growing from the 1938 primary act, but agreed to hear the appeals of James P. Kirk and Victor Skok, of Pittsburgh.

Brownmiller was sentenced to serve one year in jail and fined $3,000 for permitting "excessive payoffs" on the Luzerne county highways prior to the 1938 general election.

Kirk and Skok, Pittsburgh insurance agents, were convicted of using the office of the secretary of highways to monopolize bonding of road contractors.

The appeals of the three men from their convictions in Dauphin county court were refused in July by the State Superior Court.

State Calls on Science To Help in Conviction

Gates, 25-year-old match factory worker and a cousin of Millinder's wife, was found in lonely "Spook Hollow" last May 5. The state charged Millinder battered in her head with a rock when she refused his advances.

Dr. Milton Eddy, biology professor at Dickinson College, said three human hairs were removed from the stone and also some hair which was not human. The victim was wearing a fur collar and the professor testified the hair on the stone checked with Miss Gates' and that of the fur collar.

Earlier Centre County Sheriff Edward R. Miller testified he heard Millinder tell his father "I did it," in response to a question.

"He told the doctor that he committed the crime," the sheriff said, describing a visit by Dr. W. J. Schwartz to the jail. "Dick told him he felt better now that he had that off his chest."

Similar testimony was given by Dr. Schwartz.

The sheriff's wife, Mrs. Edward R. Miller, testified she heard Millinder tell his wife "I did it."

Over the objections of defense counsel Lewis Orvis Harvey, she described a visit by Mrs. Millinder to the jail and the defendant's wife had on the cell block screen and cried:

"You didn't do it Dick, don't say that. Nobody thinks you did it."

Harvey objected also to introduction of a transcribed statement in which authorities said the young WPA worker admitted the slaying.

Private Charles J. Hanna of the State Police testified for more than an hour and said that Millinder signed a statement at the Rockwell State Police barracks "early in the morning of June 14," describing the crime.

his field marshal's uniform and the queen wearing a two-piece suit of almond beige. On benches around the walls were policemen, court officials, overalls ARP (air raid precautions) workers fresh from the ruins of a court house next door, white-smocked women from the police canteen, and others.

When the royal couple walked into the shelter, about 30 persons already there stared in astonishment, then clapped their hands. The king leaned back in his chair, crossed his legs and lit a cigarette.

One canteen woman bustled making tea, but it was not quite ready when the sirens sounded again. The king remarked:

"It's all clear, but I'm going to wait for some of that tea."

In a few moments he and the queen were drinking from the heavy china cups marked "police canteen."

As the royal couple continued the tour, the queen appeared distraught at each new scene of devastation. She talked sympathetically to bereaved women.

Once, when the king and queen emerged from a bomb crater in the middle of a block of workers' flats, men and women pressed around them cheering and sang, "There'll Always Be an England."

10,000 Plane-Loads Of Bombs Daily Over London Area is Plan

killed, many wounded and apparently heavy damage. The raid lasted two hours.

Other squadrons of the Royal Air Force bombed German-occupied Belgium, attacking objectives at Ostend, Ghent, Brussels and points along the coast.

German night raiders again subjected London's millions to an all-night attack—the fourth in a row—and Britons read in their morning newspapers a warning to expect a Nazi invasion soon.

Fires raged in warehouses and factories along the Thames river and in "the city." London's Wall Street section. At the height of the assault it was light enough to read a newspaper on the roof of the Associated Press building just off Fleet street's "newspaper row" between St. Paul's cathedral and Charing Cross.

A Roman Catholic church in central London was demolished by a giant bomb-hit. A big apartment house on a London square was shattered, and other havoc-dealing missiles hit a large maternity hospital, smashed into the streets and shook buildings in the main business section.

Some Londoners began to flee the city of nightly horror, but most stuck it out, grimly determined not to budge.

Rescue crews still searched for bodies in the debris-choked ruin of a two-story concrete school in east London, where nearly 500 persons—homeless after earlier raids—had taken shelter. Two babies, still alive, were found beneath the rubble.

After the long night alarm, Nazi daylight raiders set London's sirens shrieking again for a 10-minute warning starting at 11:53 a. m. (5:53 a. m. EST).

The British raid on Berlin infuriated German officials and newspapers, and it was hinted that bombs marked "made in Germany" would soon begin falling on London's Houses of Parliament and government buildings in Whitehall.

Last night's London alarm lasted eight hours and 29 minutes, third longest of the war. At the same time Nazi bombers flew on their endless forays throughout the length and breadth of the country, to Wales and the Midlands, to the southeast and the southwest. Some of these attacks were two hours long.

Some thought Churchill might give a preview of Britain's next moves in the great armed conflict of Britain versus the Axis.

Early today Carol of Rumania, now an exiled former king, with his red-haired companion, Magda Lupescu, slipped furtively out of the servants' entrance of a hotel at Lugano, Switzerland and took a train into Italy. They were heading, reportedly, for Portugal. Alert hotel guests were disappointed at missing a glimpse of the couple. Swiss police quieted a mild demonstration at the station where a few Swiss shouted, "long live the king!"

Included in the list of 21 companies to whom tentative orders were sent were the manufacturers of the most celebrated American fighters and bombers—ranging from the new, 500-mile-an-hour interceptor to the forthcoming super-bomber with a 7,000-mile range.

Younger Men to be First If Limit is Raised

The senate version of the measure called for registration of all men from 21 through 30 years old, but the house upheld this to include all from 21 through 44.

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) of the senate military committee said the senate conferees offered to compromise on a provision to include men from 21 through 39, but house members wanted to defer decision over night.

Senator Thomas (D-Utah) individually offered a proposal to make the top age 35, but this also was held in abeyance, Sheppard said.

Churchill Discusses Invasion

Churchill, in opening his speech, said the air attacks so far had "failed miserably."

The Royal Air Force, he said, was stronger than at the start, while the Nazi force was being worn down by Hitler's attempts.

To attempt to invade this country without gaining mastery of the air, he said, would be "a very hazardous undertaking."

There were some preparations being made to carry on an invading force from Norwegian harbors, he said.

German forces were waiting orders to set out.

He said Britain could not be sure when such an order would be given, but "it may be launched at any time now on England, Scotland, Ireland, or on all three."

If it is to be tried at all, he continued, the invasion must, it seems, come soon because of the weather. And because, too, of the constant bombardment of the German vessels.

The next week, he said, may tell the story.

Everyone on the isles must prepare to do his duty in the face of this invasion, he said. He declared the fleet was ready and the shores were well-manned, while inland a greater army was ready than ever before. "These were augmented," he asserted, by the 1,500,000 men of the Home Guard who will fight every inch of the way in very street.

The "indiscriminate" bombings of the Nazi air force were part of a plan, he said, to cow the British people.

Upsets in Primary Elections

was stressed in his campaign. Michigan's octogenarian Gov. Lauren D. Dickinson, who got national attention some months back when he condemned big city vice and the evils of liquor, was far out in front of six younger rivals.

In Washington the initial returns went against Gov. Clarence D. Martin, who seeks to be the first chief executive of the state to win a third term. He trailed former U. S. Senator Clarence O. Dill for the Democratic nomination.

The state's contest for the nomination of U. S. senator found Rep. Walgreen ahead of the Democratic ticket of five, and Stephen S. Chadwick, past national commander of the American Legion, leading a Republican field of four. Senator Schwelb (D.) now holds the seat but he will vacate it because of his appointment to a federal judgeship.

In Colorado, George E. Sanders led John A. Carroll for the Democratic nomination for governor. The winner will run against Gov. Ralph L. Carr, unopposed Republican nominee.

President to Deliver Labor Speech Tonight

Stephen T. Early, White House press secretary, had used the word "campaign" in announcing that the chief executive would probably deliver a "labor speech," when he addressed the AFL union gathering. They said Mr. Roosevelt's remarks would have something of a political nature if the speech lived up to Early's advance description.

Democrats said that the occasion offered Mr. Roosevelt an opportunity to lend a few shafts, if he chose, to Wendell L. Willkie, his Republican opponent for president. Willkie has spoken several times since his nomination.

Another development on the campaign front was the announcement that Mayor F. H. LaGuardia would discuss "my choice for president" Thursday night in a nationwide broadcast under the auspices of the Democratic national committee.

Royal Family Absent When Shell Dropped

a palace attendant said.

An empty shelter directly under the swimming pool was not damaged.

"There was very little damage inside," the spokesman said, "mostly from flying glass and soot from chimneys. Paintings and other art objects were removed long ago."

People on London's streets still were talking excitedly about the bombing of the Reichstag in Berlin by British fliers as the spokesman explained the damage to correspondents.

A corps of glaziers and workmen was busy clearing away the debris and repairing the damage, and gardeners continued their tasks elsewhere on the 43 acres of St. James Park, with its pink geraniums and late summer flowers.

King George made a special trip from Windsor on Monday, after the bomb had dropped but before it exploded, and visited sections of London badly bombed the night before.

MEN INTERESTED IN SPECIAL JOB TRAINING FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE REGISTER AT HIGH SCHOOL TUESDAY

All men interested in special job training for national defense will be given an opportunity to register next Tuesday evening at the high school building. This decision was reached at last night's meeting of the special committee which is heading up the National Defense Training Program for re-training and establishing new training for individuals in Warren and the adjacent territory.

The entire training program will be under the general charge of the local board of school directors and will be financed without any cost to any industry or any individual who enters training. The program is being financed by the federal government and the local district will therefore be reimbursed without any direct cost to the local taxpayer.

The purpose of these courses is to give individuals now employed an opportunity to refresh themselves in their particular field or prepare for new fields. These individuals will probably attend training courses two hours each day for two days a week. Most of these training courses will be conducted in the plants in which the men work and under supervision of individuals within these plants. At the meeting last evening, H. W. Conarro, representing Struthers-Wells, requested that classes be established within their plant in blue print reading and in welding. Joseph DeFrees, representing Pennsylvania Furnace and Iron Company, made similar requests. These classes will be set up immediately.

In some plants the number of men requesting a particular program may be small. Under these conditions men from several plants may take their training in a particular plant if the facilities are available in that plant. If facilities are not available and fifteen or more individuals apply for a subject which is approved, training facilities will be set up either in one of the local school buildings or in rooms rented especially for that purpose.

The program also provides training for individuals not now employed. Such individuals will in all probability attend school or the training program eight hours a day five days a week. Here again the facilities at the local schools will be used or the facilities will have to be rented.

At the meeting the following subjects were listed as those needed locally and more or less conforming with the rather large list supplied by the Army and Navy Munitions board: blue print reading, arc welding, drafting, wood pattern making, auto mechanics, electric wiring, radio, blacksmithing, sheet metal, machine tool operation, related mathematics.

At the meeting next Tuesday any male individual who is employable, who is a citizen of the United States and in good health, may register for any of the courses listed above and for such other courses as may be requested. If fifteen or more individuals register the request is then forwarded to the proper government authorities, and if the request is approved the courses will be set up in the near future. The meeting for registration will convene at eight o'clock.

At the meeting of the general committee, the following officers were elected: President, Joseph H. DeFrees; vice president, Leonard G. Swanson; secretary, John G. Rossman.

In addition to these officers, the following were present: R. W. Steber, Burgess; H. L. Blair, county superintendent of schools; R. V. Mackay, Warren borough school board; D. W. Levine, state employment office; H. W. Conarro, Struthers-Wells Corp.; J. S. Cameron, United Refining Company; P. W. Coyle, department of public assistance.

Babcock and two sons, of Warren; Mr. and Mrs. Emile Anderson, of New Bedford, O., and Mrs. Emma Peterson and daughter, Doris, of Jamestown.

The township schools opened on Tuesday morning, with the following staff: Principal, Herman Reed; assistant, Fred Putnam, and Miss Alice Galbreath, of Bloomsburg, in the high school. The grade teachers are Floyd Potter, seventh and eighth grades; Miss Florence Lounsbury, of Russell, fifth and sixth; Miss Alice Fehman, of Russell, third and fourth; and Miss Dorothy Tillotson, of Bear Lake, first and second. The bus drivers of the various routes are: Fairbank, Robert; Walters, Mantown, Lewis; Van Ord, Wheelers, Harry; B. Nelson, in the Ponds Corners; Jay Cowles; Scranton Hollow, Lars Larson; Miller Hill, Donald Ludwick; Lanning Hill, Ernest Beck. They will be especially busy this week preparing and participating in the community fair on Friday and Saturday.
